

Tank Fires On Hungarians Armed With Flags

By ENDRE MARTON

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—Parliament Square in Budapest became a battlefield shortly after noon Thursday when a Russian tank opened fire on a few thousand peaceful demonstrators who were only weapons were Hungarian flags.

Reports from other parts of the capital told similar stories.

The situation was more than confused Thursday morning. It was thought that resistance of the rebels gradually withered away though one could hear sporadic shooting with both small arms and artillery throughout the night.

(This dispatch from the AP correspondent in Budapest was received in somewhat skeletonized form. It was the first direct word from the AP bureau at Budapest since Tuesday night.)

"Why don't you help us?"

Then an amazing thing happened. Two huge Russian tanks and an armored car drove up-packed with young Hungarians fraternizing with the Russian men and women, waving flags and shouting, "This is a peaceful demonstration" passed in front of the United States legation toward the nearby Parliament building, with beaming faces. The marchers waved their hats and some shouted:

soldiers. All were smiling easily.

Other tanks and also a number of Russian guns were mounted at various corners of the huge Gothic Parliament building.

The Russians remained friendly but kept away from the crowd and prevented demonstrators from reaching a gate leading to the Prime Ministry.

I took cover in a doorway and looking out saw a tank firing wildly.

Then three armored cars drove up packed with Russian soldiers, but they aimed their guns toward the sky before they fired.

How many became the victims of the shooting in Parliament Square Tuesday could not be ascertained. I saw the body of a woman lying under the arcades of the Ministry of Agriculture, opposite the Parliament building, and three other bodies lying on the street car track.

The stories demonstrators tell are naturally controversial. The fact is that many Hungarians arrived atop Russian tanks and armored cars. They say the Russian soldiers assured them that they had no intention to keep fighting the people and received orders to return to their bases. Others said that all this was a party headquarters, the Ministry of Defense and other ministries clustered around Parliament—had been cleared of demonstrators.

I could not see a single Hungarian soldier, neither army nor security police. At least in this area all the work was done by Russian troops.

Earlier I toured the neighborhood of the big block of red brick houses on Madach Square, site of heavy fighting Wednesday. The picture was frightful indeed, resembling the grim days after the siege of the city in 1945.

Shiny passenger cars with Austrian and other foreign license plates in front of Astoria Hotel had broken windshields. All windows of the hotel were smashed and big holes, unmistakably made by gunfire, gaped on the walls of various buildings.

All the streets around are strewn with debris. Cables and trolleys dangle down into the street. Shops are burned out. All this is the remains of the fighting Wednesday afternoon.

Ike Fires Back H-Test Answer

President Says U.S. Will Agree To Ban When Safeguards Sure

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower, hitting again at Adlai Stevenson, said Thursday night America will agree to ban H-bomb testing only when other nations possessing the weapon agree to "sure safeguards" against attack.

Addressing a cheering capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden and a nationwide television-radio audience, the President accused Stevenson, his Democratic rival, of political "double-talk" in the campaign.

Estimates of those packing the garden ranged from 19,000 to 21,000. Every available seat was taken. However, some seats immediately behind the platform were blocked off and this made a precise estimate difficult. Several thousand persons listened to the President via loudspeakers in the streets outside the garden, unable to get in.

Immediately after his speech, Eisenhower was driven to La Guardia Field where he boarded his private plane, the Columbine, as a crowd of about 700 persons chanted "we want Ike." The plane took off for Washington at 8:15 p.m. CST. The plane arrived at Washington at 9:10 p.m. and the President drove immediately to the White House.

In the same arena only two nights ago, Stevenson drew a crowd estimated by Democratic party spokesmen at 18,000. Persons outside Madison Square Garden on Tuesday night were estimated at less than 100.

Safeguards

In criticizing the opposition candidate's call for the United States to take the lead in seeking world agreement to ban hydrogen bomb testing, Eisenhower said he wanted to "reiterate" as we constantly do—America's instant readiness to lay aside all nuclear weapons—including this testing—when, but only when, we have sure safeguards that others will do the same."

That was a clear allusion to Russia, which—while advocating an end to H-bomb testing—so far has refused to agree to what Eisenhower regards as adequate inspection safeguards.

The compelling challenge before the world," Eisenhower told the rally, "is not the matter of testing nuclear weapons—but of making impossible their use in any nuclear war."

And, he said, his administration will "go steadily on seeking safe and sound means for disarmament—so that history can never say that this generation left humanity to be crucified upon a cross of iron."

On the drive Thursday night from his hotel to the garden, Eisenhower again got a big reception from crowds along the street, as he did when he arrived in New York in midday. At one point, there was a cluster of signs saying, "Mr. President, please help Hungary" in its current struggle against Soviet domination.

Elderly Man Dies After Collision In Downtown Crete

Lincoln Star Special

CRETE, Neb. (AP)—John Kubicek, 68, of Crete died Thursday of injuries suffered when he collided with a car in downtown Crete Wednesday night.

His death was the second Saline County traffic fatality in two days, and the 24th traffic death in Nebraska this year, compared to 250 on this date in 1955.

Authorities identified the driver of the car as Leon R. Piepho, 22, of Crete. Two witnesses to the accident said Piepho was driving slowly and that Kubicek walked off the curb in front of the vehicle, officials said.

County Attorney Alan Steinacher said there would be no inquest.

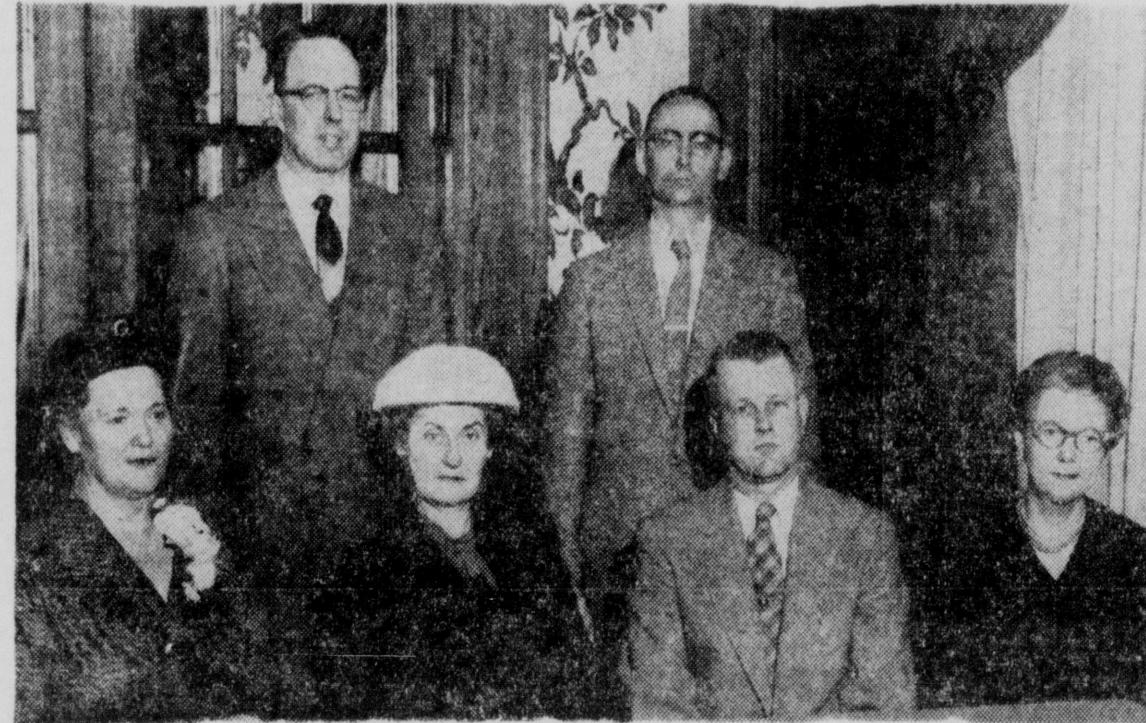

Wayne Harmon, 43, of Beaver City died late Wednesday of injuries suffered in a freak accident near Friend, blamed on high winds.

OMAHA (AP)—District Court jury Thursday found Clifford Edward Butler, 49-year-old transient, guilty of a charge of manslaughter in the stabbing death last May 12 of Ollie John Watson, 49, Omaha. Watson was stabbed with a screwdriver. Sentence will be pronounced later.

Adlai Charges Ike Broke Ag Promise

Demo Says President Pledged 90% Support On Prices

By ARTHUR EDSON

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said Thursday night that in 1952 President Eisenhower made promises to get the farmers' votes, and then promptly broke them.

And he told a cheering audience in the city where he once was governor:

"The Republicans are still playing election-year politics with the farmer for all it's worth."

The Democratic presidential candidate said that Eisenhower told the farmers in 1952 that their prices would be supported at 90 per cent of parity.

"Did President Eisenhower keep those promises?" Stevenson asked. "He did not!"

A near capacity crowd of close to 5,000 at the Springfield Armory cheered Stevenson repeatedly and booted heartily whenever he mentioned Nixon.

As the crowd whooped it up, Stevenson lit into the President repeatedly.

Climax

It was a Democratic "farm day" rally in Springfield, and this was the climax of day-long meeting.

With Stevenson on the platform was his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Kefauver also hit out at what he called broken farm promises.

But it was Stevenson who was firing the big oratorical guns Thursday night. He sprinkled his speech with words like "callous perfidy," "self-righteous hypocrisy," and "duplicity and hypocrisy."

During his speech, the President was interrupted 48 times by applause and cheers. A thundering ovation marked the end of his address as it had his original appearance in the garden.

Close Races Loom In Some States

Solid South
Really Looks
Solid Again

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — You can nearly always get two inside versions of anything going on in Washington, and sometimes both of them fit.

A few days ago they were saying that Eisenhower was running "scared."

It fitted.

It was not many years ago that his party had failed to win an election very largely because it was overconfident.

Demos Pound Hard

Stevenson and Kefauver were and are rattling the bushes for all they're worth.

Stevenson had forced the Republicans to answer some "wife-beating" questions and charges, such as the accusation that the administration is not friendly to the little man, which always makes the answer appear awkward.

Close races appeared to be developing in some key states such as Pennsylvania and California. The solid South really appeared fairly solid once more.

There was considerable belief that, while he had hopelessly out-fumbled himself politically, Harold Stassen may have been right in his estimate that the Nixon issue would adversely affect the ticket.

The Democrats were first away from the campaigning mark and looked like they were going strong.

GOP Gets To Work

Then the Republicans got to work.

Nixon, known to many in the past as a bitterly partisan campaigner, took a different tack from 1952, agreeing for the most part that his opponents are honorable men. Irritation of the voters has been held to a minimum. In spite of general agreement that the Republicans had lost some strength in four years, independent polls and surveys of political opinion generally reported them still ahead—farther ahead than most political observers had expected them to be.

Ike Adds Speeches

Eisenhower started adding speeches to his originally rather slim program. His appearances, whether as president or political candidate, produced enthusiasm. More appearances were added. An effort is being made in the South.

In the first weeks after the nominating conventions there was no general expectation that the Republicans would regain control of Congress. Now, suddenly, there has been superimposed upon the "running scared" theory another—that the President and his advisers are going to make a last-minute effort to see if his personal popularity can stir up more interest in Republican congressional candidates.

Whether that theory fits or not is another question.

Library Association Meeting Hears Public Relations Need

Miss Sarah L. Wallace, public relations director at the Minneapolis Public Library, presented a four-point program Thursday evening by which public relations could be "effectively incorporated" into the approach of library associations.

"The field of public relations," she prefaced her suggestions, "has become so wide and all-embracing that it can no longer be ignored, particularly by professional librarians."

She submitted these points for consideration in developing a sound public relations program:

1. Libraries must become unified in one strong federation, rather than a string of isolated units.

2. The associations must attempt to "do big things," particularly by pooling funds to establish a strong information center.

Chairmen for the luncheons were Dale Portschy, Omaha Public Library; Mrs. Dale Workman, Beatrie Public Library; Miss Eva Erixon, Technical High School in Omaha; K. L. Janicek, University of Omaha, and Richard A. Farley, Love Memorial Library at the University of Nebraska.

230 Attend

Nearly 230 library officials from Nebraska public schools, cities and colleges attended the convention which began Thursday.

Special section luncheons were held during the noon hour for those representatives interested in the areas of the public library, children and young people, high school and college and university librarians.

For the luncheons were Dale Portschy, Omaha Public Library; Mrs. Dale Workman, Beatrie Public Library; Miss Eva Erixon, Technical High School in Omaha; K. L. Janicek, University of Omaha, and Richard A. Farley, Love Memorial Library at the University of Nebraska.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy disclosed Thursday that it has developed—and has available for use—a powerful new atomic anti-submarine weapon, the Lulu.

Vice Adm. William V. Davis, deputy chief of Naval operations for air, told the Aviation Writers Assn. that Lulu "can kill submarines within miles of the point of the explosion."

Although he did not say so, Davis apparently was identifying the weapon to which Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas referred in an Oct. 4 speech in Los Angeles.

Thomas said then that the Navy had a secret weapon which might revolutionize submarine warfare.

That theory fits or not is another question.

Cops Unfold Tale Of Child Shunned After Birth 'Mixup'

LONG BEACH, Calif. (INS)—Police unfolded the bizarre story Thursday of an "ugly duckling" child shunned by his four brothers and sisters and denied the love of his parents because they believe he was given to them through a hospital mixup nine years ago.

The strange tale was brought to light following the arrest of the father, Roy T. Wise, 31, on suspicion of unjustly punishing the child.

Wise, an $85-a-week Long Beach watchmaker, and his wife, Evelyn, first told juvenile authorities that they would put the boy—9-year-old George Edwards Wise—up for adoption.

However, they apparently changed their minds later and offered to keep him, despite their belief that he may not be their own child.

"In other words," he said, "the government may have to pay to bail out the banks that are involved in what was in the beginning a questionable deal."

"There are many millions of dollars involved," said Scott in a speech at a First Congressional District Democratic rally.

Tent Wheat Plan Failed, Demo Says

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Sen. Scott (D-N.C.) said here Thursday "the government may have to pay a pretty price to bail out the banks" involved in a plan two years ago under which wheat was stored in tents. He said the wheat rotted.

Scott, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he had been informed the U.S. Department of Agriculture decided in July "to enter into contracts with a milling company and 13 banks" covering the plan.

"In other words," he said, "the government may have to pay to bail out the banks that are involved in what was in the beginning a questionable deal."

"There are many millions of dollars involved," said Scott in a speech at a First Congressional District Democratic rally.

"In other words," he said, "the government may have to pay to bail out the banks that are involved in what was in the beginning a questionable deal."

Scott said President Eisenhower's brother, Arthur, is president of one of the banks involved and a director of another.

He said he had asked Agriculture Secretary Benson to furnish him copies of the contracts, but "I doubt if I will hear anything from him before the election."

Scott said that the Burrus Mills Co. of Texas "concocted a very novel scheme for storing wheat" in tents and "sold" the Department of Agriculture on the idea.

Baruch Warns Against Dropping U.S. Atom Guard

PHOENIX, Ariz. (INS)—Elder statesman Bernard Baruch warned Thursday against America letting down her nuclear-weapons guard because of Russian proposals to ban the testing of hydrogen bombs.

Baruch told a press conference in Phoenix that Soviet Premier Bulganin's latest proposal is "fraught with gravest danger."

The 86-year-old humanitarian said that following the Russian proposal would only "delude the people of the world with a false sense of security."

Baruch, in siding with President Eisenhower's rejection of Bulganin's proposal, cautioned that "it's better to be safe than sorry."

No charges have been filed.

Sen. Eastland Again Urges Ouster Of Red

. . . As Aid In Kidnap

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.) told the State Department Thursday the actions of Soviet diplomat Konstantin P. Ekinov in the Tanya Chwastow case "strongly reinforce" a demand for Ekinov's expulsion from the United States.

Eastland heads the Senate Internal Security subcommittee which voted unanimously last May to demand that Ekinov, first secretary of the Soviet U.N. delegation, be kicked out along with Arkady Sobolev, chief Soviet delegate to the United Nations.

The State Department rejected the recommendation June 19 but said its decision was subject to review if subsequent developments warranted it.

Eastland sent Secretary of State Dulles a transcript of testimony taken by his subcommittee that Alexei Chwastow, a Russian refugee, had the aid of Ekinov and other Russian dignitaries in smuggling Chwastow's American-born daughter, Tanya, out of the country aboard the liner Queen Mary on Oct. 5.

Two Others

Eastland wrote that while he was making "special reference" to Ekinov the testimony also showed that two other Soviet U.N. representatives and Fedor Solomatin, second secretary of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, were involved. Eastland did not name the other two but the names of Vassily F. Grubayev, counselor to the U.N. delegation, and Col. Alexander P. Koryakovsky, Soviet army delegate to the U.N., were mentioned in testimony before the subcommittee.

Tanya now is a ward of the British courts pending trial of a custody suit filed by her mother, Mrs. George Diaczok of Detroit.

LONDON (AP)—Walter Giesecking, famed German pianist, died early Friday after an emergency operation in a London hospital. He would have been 61 on Nov. 5.

Giesecking became ill after arriving in London Monday to make some recordings.

Giesecking was injured in December 1955 in a bus crash near Stuttgart, Germany which claimed the life of his wife. The accident prevented him from making a U.S. tour early this year.

Flowing Well Grange Displays Service Work To Judges

BEAVER CROSSING, N.H.—Flowing Well Grange presented a two-hour program describing projects which varied from civil defense to religious services. Thus, day after day could be impress judges of the nation-wide $10,000 Community Service Contest.

The local Grange chapter this month had been announced as one of 10 finalists from among 1,512 Granges throughout the country. The National Grange and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation jointly sponsor the contest, and first prize is $10,000.

State Water Conservation Law Asked

By Reclamation Group

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP)—The Nebraska Reclamation Assn. Thursday called for a general water conservation law in Nebraska as a possible division of the state into ground water districts to administer their own problems.

The resolution was adopted at a business session held during the joint convention of the Reclamation and Irrigation associations here.

The resolution came after a floor discussion of ground water problems touched off by the address of E. C. Reed of Lincoln, director of the Ground Water Conservation and Survey division.

Reed told the joint convention that he believed by the end of 1956 there would be 18,000 irrigation wells either in operation or ready for use in Nebraska and some serious questions loomed as a result of this rapid growth of pump irrigation and the lack of state laws governing the use of ground water supplies.

In some instances, he said, land owners drill wells adjacent to their property lines and there is a possibility that should the owner of adjoining land adopt the same procedure the offset wells could work against each other and create the question of relative rights.

Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.) told the group he felt it most important that organizations such as the Reclamation Assn. consider ground rules for the use of water because of its expanded use.

In answer to a question Dan Jones Jr., of Lincoln, state irrigation chief, said there are 3,300 wells registered of the estimated 18,000 but there is no state law requiring such registration.

The resolution as adopted called on the state legislature "to continue the study of this problem and to enact such legislation as will assure to all areas of this state the maximum use of water supplies"

Mrs. Alvin J. Gard presented a luncheon when Flowing Well Grange judges included those from 10 different communities. Service projects sponsored by the 400 members of the Grange Projects committee of which judges included those from agriculture, civil defense, education, health, recreation, welfare, and fat tires. 32 trips were made during the year, 20 of them day packages, 12 overnight packages, and 10 visitors and tourists on pleasure trips.

National Grange Lecturer Edward F. Holter and his wife traveled 1500 miles in 10 days, visiting the locations of the 10 finalists of the official contest, and 10 of their 100 members.

Beaver Crossing was the last stop for the Holters after visiting cities in Colorado, Kansas, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, and Texas. Their route will be revealed Nov. 1 in the National Grange's 90th annual meeting in Rochester, N.Y.

Robert V. Mullen, executive secretary of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, presented Mrs. Gard with the $1,000 check which goes to all of the top 10 Granges. He said Nebraska is the only state in the nine-year history of the contest to have one of its Granges in the top 10 each year. Flowing Well placed third nationally in 1954.

Granges at Friend and Goehner have each placed both first and second.

Acting as judges for this year's contest are Dr. N. L. Wilson, consultant with the Ford Foundation, Hollis M. Seavey of the Clear Channel Broadcasting Services, Ross Cumming, master of the South Dakota State Grange; A. Lars Nelson, master of the Washington State Grange, and Ken Kendrick of the National Association of Wheat Growers. All are agriculture specialists.

Graham Defense Plans No Appeal On Death Ruling

DENVER (INS)—Defense attorneys for convicted mass murderer John Gilbert Graham said Thursday they will not appeal the Colorado Supreme Court decision that will send the plane dynamiter to the gas chamber Jan. 11.

The Supreme Court recently denied a rehearing for Graham who was convicted of dynamiting a commercial aircraft, killing his mother and 43 other persons.

The two court-appointed lawyers, lodged the appeal over Graham's strenuous objections, said they will not attempt to delay the execution although granted 15 days to do so. They said:

"We have discharged our duties to the court, to the defendant and to the people of Colorado."

Although he continued to maintain his innocence from the witness stand, Graham has said he wants to die as quickly as possible.

Growing Movement Toward Small Community Museums Cited At Meet

Dr. Carl Guthe, research associate of the American Association of Museums, said Thursday that of museums to give the people an opportunity to see treasures of our society, and to draw their own conclusions," he said.

In an afternoon panel discussion a group of five museum authorities similarly discussed the branch museum as its function related to special areas.

Panel members were Edwin C. Alberts, U.S. National Park Service; Dr. C. B. Schultz, University of Nebraska State Museum; Alan R. Woolworth, North Dakota State Historical Society, and Merrill J. Mattes. Panel moderator was Mrs. Willena D. Cartwright, State Historical Society of Colorado.

One of the problems which the group discussed was whether a small branch museum should have a professional curator, or someone who serves merely as a janitor.

Favor Curator

The majority of the panel seemed to favor a museum official who would be qualified to explain the various exhibits to visitors.

Further discussion centered around the length of time which such institutions should be opened, the nearing completion of the Scottsbluff national monument and the trend of small museums toward "tourist attractions."

Sessions for the 60 Midwestern museum officials were held Thursday at the State Historical Society. Friday the conference will move to the University of Nebraska Museum at Morrill Hall and Saturday to the Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha.

Flowing Well Grange Displays Service Work To Judges

By DEL HARDING

Star Staff Writer

BEAVER CROSSING, Neb.—Flowing Well Grange presented a two-hour program describing projects which varied from civil defense to religious services Thursday as it sought to impress judges of the nation-wide $50,000 Community Service Contest.

The local Grange earlier this month had been announced as one of 10 finalists from among 4,542 Granges throughout the country. The National Grange and the Sears-Roebuck Foundation jointly sponsor the contest, and first prize is $10,000.

State Water Conservation Law Asked

By Reclamation Group

HOLDREGE, Neb. (P)—The Nebraska Reclamation Assn. Thursday called for a general water conservation law in Nebraska and possible division of the state into ground water districts to administer their own problems.

The resolution was adopted at a business session held during the joint convention of the Reclamation and Irrigation associations here.

The resolution came after a floor discussion of ground water problems touched off by the address of E. C. Reed of Lincoln, director of the Ground Water Conservation and Survey division.

Reed told the joint convention that he believed by the end of 1956 there would be 18,000 irrigation wells either in operation or ready for use in Nebraska and some serious questions loomed as a result of this rapid growth of pump irrigation and the lack of state laws governing the use of ground water supplies.

In some instances, he said, land owners drill wells adjacent to their property lines and there is a possibility that should the owner of adjoining land adopt the same procedure the offset wells could work against each other and create the question of relative rights.

Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.) told the group he felt it most important that organizations such as the Reclamation Assn. consider ground rules for the use of water because of its expanded use.

In answer to a question Dan Jones Jr., of Lincoln, state irrigation chief, said there are 3,300 wells registered of the estimated 18,000 but there is no state law requiring such registration.

The resolution as adopted called on the state legislature "to continue the study of this problem and to enact such legislation as will assure to all areas of this state the maximum use of water supplies . . ."

Mrs. Alvin J. Gard presided at a luncheon which was followed by reports on many of the 81 different community service projects sponsored by the 45-in member Grange. Projects explained to the judges included those dealing with agriculture, civil defense, religion, educational, health and recreational facilities, youth activities, holiday packages to persons in the service, being host to European visitors and taking chartered bus trips.

National Grange Lecturer Edward F. Holter told the more than 150 persons attending that the local turnout was the largest the officials have had at any of their 10 stops.

Beaver Crossing was the last stop for the five judges after visiting other finalists in Colorado, Kansas, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Texas. Contest results will be revealed Nov. 19th at the National Grange's 90th annual meeting in Rochester, N.Y.

Robert V. Mullen, executive secretary of the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, presented Mrs. Gard with the $1,000 check which goes to all of the top 10 Granges. He said Nebraska is the only state in the nine-year history of the contest to have one of its Granges in the top 10 each year. Flowing Well placed third nationally in 1954.

Granges at Friend and Goehner have each placed both first and second.

Acting as judges for this year's contest are: Dr. M. L. Wilson, consultant with the Ford Foundation; Hollis M. Seavey of the Clear Channel Broadcasting Services; Ross Cumming, master of the South Dakota State Grange; A. Lars Nelson, master of the Washington State Grange; and Ken Kendrick of the National Association of Wheat Growers. All are agriculture specialists.

Graham Defense Plans No Appeal On Death Ruling

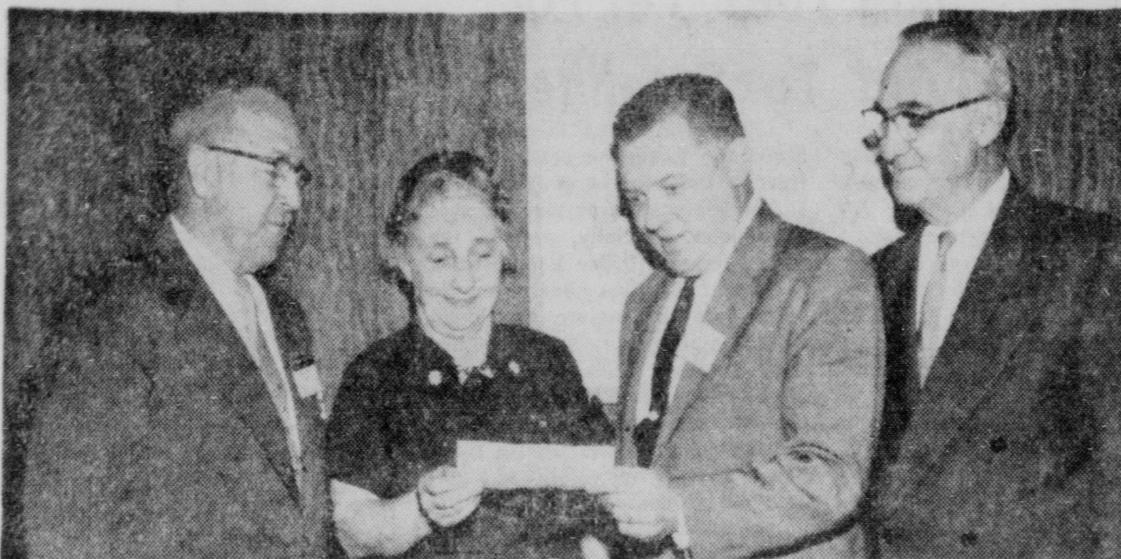

DENVER (INS)—Defense attorneys for convicted mass murderer John Gilbert Graham said Thursday they will not appeal the Colorado Supreme Court decision that will send the plane dynamiter to the gas chamber Jan. 11.

The Supreme Court recently denied a rehearing for Graham who was convicted of dynamiting a commercial aircraft, killing his mother and 43 other persons.

The two court-appointed lawyers, lodger the appeal over Graham's strenuous objections, said they will not attempt to delay the execution although granted 15 days to do so. They said:

"We have discharged our duties to the court, to the defendant and to the people of Colorado."

Although he continued to maintain his innocence from the witness stand, Graham has said he wants to die as quickly as possible.

Growing Movement Toward Small Community Museums Cited At Meet

Dr. Carl Guthe, research associate of the American Association of Museums, said Thursday that a growing movement has been directed toward more small community museums.

"It's the unique social function of museums to give the people an opportunity to see treasures of our society and to draw their own conclusions," he said.

In an afternoon panel discussion a group of five museum authorities similarly discussed the branch museum as its function related to special areas.

Panel members were Edwin C. Alberts, U.S. National Park Service; Dr. C. B. Schultz, University of Nebraska State Museum; Alan R. Woolworth, North Dakota State Historical Society, and Merrill J. Mattes. Panel moderator was Mrs. Willena D. Cartwright, State Historical Society of Colorado.

One of the problems which the group discussed was whether a small branch museum should have a professional curator, or someone who serves merely as a janitor.

Favor Curator

The majority of the panel seemed to favor a museum official who would be qualified to explain the various exhibits to visitors.

Further discussion centered around the length of time which such institutions should be opened, the nearing completion of the Scottsbluff national monument and the trend of small museums toward "tourist attractions."

Sessions for the 60 Midwestern museum officials were held Thursday at the State Historical Society. Friday the conference will move to the University of Nebraska Museum at Morrill Hall and Saturday to the Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha.

Utah Couple, Lost On Hunting Trip, Is Found Frozen

PRICE, Utah (INS)—A Utah man and his wife, missing since Tuesday evening on a deer hunt, were found frozen to death Thursday in Spanish Fork Canyon near Soldier Summit.

The couple apparently was trapped in rugged country Tuesday night when an early season storm swept over most of the state, dumping nearly a foot of snow in the mountains and canyons.

Victims were Ruel Jensen, 28, and his wife, Betty, 25, of Helper. They were the parents of four children.

Carbon County Sheriff Albert Passic led a posse into the area and discovered Jensen's body about 12 miles from the point where the couple's pickup truck had been abandoned. Mrs. Jensen's body was found several hours later only about two miles from the truck.

Passic said the woman apparently died first and Jensen continued on for 10 more miles in a northerly direction until he died. They said:

"We have discharged our duties to the court, to the defendant and to the people of Colorado."

Although he continued to maintain his innocence from the witness stand, Graham has said he

Kaltenborn's Nonsense

To Lincoln came H. V. Kaltenborn, distinguished commentator, to address teachers meeting in the Nebraska capital in the annual gatherings of the Nebraska State Education Association. If Kaltenborn told the teachers the same thing he told Miss Nancy Benjamin of the staff of The Lincoln Star, we trust that the members of the teaching corps in southeastern Nebraska's public schools will not take him too seriously.

Miss Benjamin reported that Kaltenborn had said this, after visiting Columbus, Neb., a month ago, in advance, we assume, of the cornhusking competition:

"The present plight of the farmers in Nebraska has been mitigated by the era of Eisenhower prosperity. Farmers who lost their crops have received payments from government and have been able to find jobs in neighboring small manufacturing companies because jobs are available."

Numbers of Nebraskans on the farm have sought employment in towns in order to tide themselves and their families over an emergency and have succeeded in obtaining work, but it is the height of absurdity to suggest to rural Nebraska that "the plight of the farmers has been mitigated by the era of Eisenhower prosperity." We haven't the slightest notion where Kaltenborn has been keeping himself, but obviously it has been some place other than around these parts. Which is all right with us if he is going to spill that kind of nonsense.

And the teachers, our educators, pay good money for that kind of bunk!

The Teachers Speak

It is more than likely that the discussion of student discipline as presented by teachers who are here for this area's section of the Nebraska State Teachers Convention was more of a description of modern home conditions than a criticism of the children who occupy the classroom seats.

The teachers pulled no punches. When they referred to the decay of discipline they were not talking about delinquency. They were talking about children who are not incorrigible at all—just kids who have become hard to handle because they do not get enough sleep nights, because they are distracted by too much entertainment and subject to too little regulation at home. The result is an indifferent, complacent, inattentive, sometimes naughty pupil for whom Ineddycomplacency and reservation of effort compose a greater menace than incorrigibility; for the latter by any measurement touches only a small minority while the former can affect all.

The testimony of these Nebraska teachers deserves immediate and concerned attention. That which they are talking about is truly formidable.

Needed On-The-Farm Reserves

Midweek produced a break in Nebraska's protracted drought—a gusty break that brought further damage to dust-blown fields before rain in most areas and snow in some provided welcome relief.

Reports from over the state varied from small fractions of an inch to one unconfirmed downpour of an inch and a half. Good as it all was and welcome indeed still the significance of the storm was more in that it promised a swing toward wetter days. Such moisture as it produced was of superficial benefit. Deep down Nebraska's subsoil is dangerously dry. It will take a lot of water to penetrate that far and to relieve deep-rooted production. It will take a lot, too, to replenish the state's irrigation reservoirs. Nevertheless the arrival of moisture is big and good news for Nebraska.

If there is a silver lining in drought and agricultural adversity thus current setback has served well to teach in terms of ever-normal production with emphasis on water management through reservoirs and irrigation.

But perhaps a lesson of equal importance is being missed. That one bespeaks the necessity of an ever-normal granary for agriculture by the same logic the principle is applied to the consumer.

It was a sorry error that the Benson administration did not move first toward the encouragement of adequate on-the-farm reserves. It chose rather to assault prices and planting in an ineffectual effort to eliminate surpluses in federal warehouses. It was a case of too big an ever-normal granary for the consumer paired with an inadequate on-the-farm reserve. There would have been less farm hardship and better administration of food reserves had the drought found the average farm with a grain and hay reserve adequate for at least a year of operation. If there is illogic in the farm programs to date it is that they are geared to the presumption of production and not much, if any, to non-production.

The Exception

There is something delightfully fabulous in the experience of Jean Seberg, 17-year-old Marshalltown, Ia., girl. A few months ago she was like hundreds of other girls, working on her part in a high school play. Today she has the title role in G. B. Shaw's play "Saint Joan" whose movie version is under way. It takes a world record jump to make it from the footlights of a high school auditorium to a top role in Hollywood.

It is such occasional triumphs that gives justification to the dreams of the rest of us—dreams of being the exception—and it is the same that makes school teachers—dramatic or otherwise—like their work—that constant mining of the good hide and every so often coming up with a big nugget.

Deadly Therapy

Politically the improvement of the lot of the small business man seems to be one of those matters that never gets out of committee. Meanwhile, big business gets bigger.

If protracted studies and expressions of sympathy compose the desideratum of federal action then the Eisenhower administration deserves the pennant. But if the matter has anything to do with improving the climate for small business the public and the administration would do well to consult the record on annual business failures.

The average number of failures for businesses with liabilities under $100,000 was 5,874 annually from 1946 to 1952. In 1952 the figure rose to 7,801, in 1953 it was 8,075, in 1954 it was 10,226 and in 1955 it was 10,113.

thing. Let it be written that in the closing days of this campaign, thanks to his efforts to clarify confusion in this controversy over continuing tests of the H-bomb, Sen. Curtis qualifies as a candidate for the Nobel Prize award. In recognition of his scientific understanding of what necessarily most of us Joe Smiths do not know or pretend to know—we propose Sen. Curtis for careful consideration for long-delayed recognition in the field of science. It is overdue. Believe us, this boy has been hiding his light under a basket far too long.

We didn't know that Sen. Curtis was a nuclear expert when we elected him. It is so comforting to discover it now. From now on we all can quiet all our fears, brush aside our apprehensions, and place our faith in Carl. He knows, I do, doesn't know, then who does?

DREW PEARSON

Not Time Yet For Aid To Satellites

WASHINGTON — A good many days before the Polish revolt, Allen Dulles, head of Central Intelligence, the younger, smarter brother of the secretary of state, predicted that what did happen would happen. He also predicted serious straining at the leash against Moscow in other Satellite countries.

Finally he urged the Eisenhower administration to do something to encourage the satellite break-away. He found Ike leaders and State department strategists, however, much too preoccupied in the political campaign to do much serious Iron Curtain thinking.

In Washington, Allen Dulles, the much less publicized member of the Dulles family, is considered by far the brighter of the two brothers. Though he operates under a careful cloak of secrecy so that his mistakes are not known to the public, he has made few mistakes since his backing of Col. Nasar (the worst), and has called the shots with remarkable accuracy.

In this case, however, it looks as if the elder Dulles brother's do-nothing policy re Poland was wiser than Allen's do-something policy. Over CBS TV the other night, John Foster Dulles reported to the public that he was doing very little to encourage Polish revolutionists. Dulles said this almost apologetically as if fumbling to figure out what could be done. In the course of this fumbling he said: "There are balloons." He referred to the freedom balloons which have been floated regularly and repeatedly across the border into Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary.

Despite Dulles's groping, every diplomatic observer who has followed the European scene closely figures that the best thing the United States can do right now is keep quiet officially, and let the strong ferment inside Poland work itself out. For this government to barge into the picture even with public statements might either drive restless Poles back toward Moscow, or give Moscow an excuse to barge into the picture.

The quick, resentful Polish reaction to Eisenhower's political statement in Denver congratulating the Poles showed the wisdom of the elder Dulles's do-nothing policy, even if he arrived at it by accident.

KHRUSHCHEV OUT?

You can write it down as almost certain that, bubbling, vodka drinking Nikita Khrushchev, the secretary of the Communist party who tried to soften the tough policies of Joe Stalin, is on his way out.

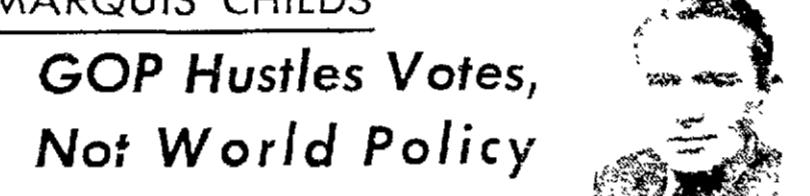

A small clique inside the Kremlin has been gunning for him for some time. Now the Polish revolt gives them an excuse to oust him. His ousting will probably be bad news for the United States, because Khrushchev, with all his faults, was a lot more tolerant toward the rest of the world than Ruthless Joe Stalin. He gave the Russian people more freedom, had started to lift the Iron Curtain, and, according to reports from U.S. Ambassador Bohlen, seemed to think that hydrogen war would spell the end of civilization.

The group that has disapproved of Khrushchev's policies is headed by our America-hating ex-Foreign Minister Molotov, who believes in the Stalin school that toughness pays. Now he can say: "I told you so."

GOP Hustles Votes, Not World Policy

WASHINGTON — It seems a long time ago that President Stevenson was trying to challenge the attitude in the administration that, so long as President Eisenhower is in the White House, there is no reason to be concerned. No need to worry because disarmament talks have so long been stalled on dead center. No need to worry because the Egyptian arms deal and the Suez crisis have put Soviet Russia square in the Middle East. No need to worry over the attrition in the North Atlantic Alliance.

There was that early phase—and this seems a long time ago—when Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver were rallying their party leaders around the country and the Republicans began to believe that they were in trouble. Even some of their most committed journalistic spokesmen wrote gloomily that the Grand Old Party was about to throw away another election.

Ever since then, however, the curse of complacency, if not downright smugness, has gone straight up. It is now off the chart altogether and only a skywriter could do it justice. The Republicans believe today in a landslide and almost every poll bears out this buoyant, joyous confidence.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is surely the ablest lawyer-advocate that a client could possibly want. Throughout a highly successful career he has perfected the art of advocacy. Insofar as he has participated in this campaign, he has been telling us that all is for the best in the best possible of worlds.

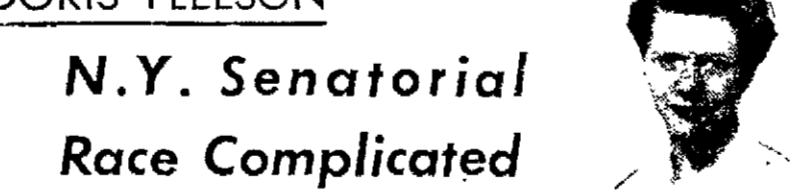

When he was asked on a television program how we were going to "retrieve" our position in the Middle East, he reacted indignantly at the word. Retrieve? There was no question on that because, presumably, our position had not been harmed.

Ignoring any other damage that may have been done—and surely President Eisenhower's self-righteous letter to Marshal Bulganin on H-bomb testing cannot have helped our relations with the rest of the world—there is the fact that the administration has increasingly frozen in defensive attitudes behind policies as they are. This defensive posture will not be relaxed automatically on November 7.

DORIS FLESON

N.Y. Senatorial Race Complicated

NEW YORK — New York is the greatest of the great cities which are today's frontiers of democracy in America. It is testing its political maturity this fall in an unprecedented contest for the United States Senate seat now held by Herbert H. Lehman who declined to run again.

For the first time at that level, an American Catholic, Mayor Robert F. Wagner Jr., Democrat, is running against an American of Jewish descent, Jacob K. Javits, the state attorney-general, Republican. Such representative candidates have long appeared on New York senatorial tickets but never before have they been matched against each other.

The resulting campaign is decorous enough on the surface. Both men are able, attractive and experienced. Both are political liberals and have in past years drawn on much the same type of support.

Evidently the surface, however, much seems to be going on that is confusing, complex and bruising. Old loyalties are going by the board. Many New Yorkers of detached outlook find the situation distasteful and criticize the political leaders who created it.

The final outcome appears uncertain. The private soundings of men long versed in the intricacies of New York's melting-pot politics turn up results that merely confuse them further.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Don't Count Pheasants Until They're Caught

The duck season is on, but the Polk Progress is not looking forward to more invitations to duck dinners than it can easily accept. One of its townpeople remarked: "If the ducks expect to find any water in this part of Nebraska, they better carry a thermos bottle with them."

By MONA B. PARKER
The Dawson County Seabergers are not making the mistake, as they once did, of asking friends to dine on pheasant before the fixin's for the meal are actually simmering in the oven. Mrs. Seaberg "did that one time before I knew better, and the pheasants were plentiful that year, too. Our guests had to settle for chicken.

And, says the Bertrand Herald, it this season follows the usual pattern, there will be a number of righteously irritated rural folk before pheasant hunting time is over. There is always the aftermath of destruction through ignorance, carelessness, or pure cussedness—fences torn down, grain still in the field destroyed, and injured livestock. Small wonder that the farmer doesn't welcome the hunter with open gate.

Around Bengalman they're telling the story of the walking decoys—or what may happen if a man really takes his goose pursuit seriously. Clarence Oakley and some young helpers were gathering mimosas along the river when two geese and a sizeable bunch of ducks came into view. After a dash to the car for his firearms, he took up his position and waited. Then it was discovered that the juicy fowl were nothing more or less than abandoned decoys. Embarrassed and chagrined, he went back to work. Later he glanced out to see that the two geese decoys were now three decoys and that one of them was walking. Another dash for the gun, and this time it paid off in the real McCoy—not decoy.

And then the retelling of the old story of the farmer who had his well analyzed.

"Result—it contained 20 percent moisture."

Alma teenagers were directly responsible for the first rainfall that has fallen on Harlan County in more than a month. The Boy Scouts and the high school band did it by washing $150 worth of cars in one afternoon. The stunt was publicized—possibly with a dry weather eye to trying it, too—in Michigan, Colorado, Iowa and elsewhere over the nation.

The Ashland Gazette says that anyone considered it a hot year and a hot October, there are four cotton plants at Louisville that will agree. Raised by Max Anlang there, they have produced 50 bolls of cotton.

Poor Pollsters

ANSELMO, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I find a good many who have been voting Republican all their lives are now going to vote for Democrats. More Nebraskans seem to be thinking for themselves instead of letting party leaders tell them—and they say it is time for a change. One man told me: "We cannot go along with a party that has deserted us. How can they expect farmers to accept 75 per cent of parity and pay all other industry 125 per cent?"

The nation probably will go Democratic regardless of the poll-takers. Ninety per cent of all the newspapers are Republican-controlled and of course would not publish a report to show Democrats in the lead. Fifty per cent of the Republicans do not favor Nixon and do not like his becoming President, while most Democrats are satisfied with their vice presidential nominee. It could be as bad an upset for the poll-takers as when they had Dewey elected President and his cabinet members all picked out.

Well, I do not know how many "cornerstones" we have, but Ike and Benson have already plowed under some 1,000 to 2,000 small farmers already in Nebraska.

It is time we get out of our dream boat and face the facts. Our barons, millionaire clubs and like catatails.

"The present plight of the farmers in Nebraska has been mitigated by the era of Eisenhower prosperity. Farmers who lost their crops have received payments from government and have been able to find jobs in neighboring small manufacturing companies because jobs are available."

Numbers of Nebraskans on the farm have sought employment in towns in order to tide themselves and their families over an emergency and have succeeded in obtaining work, but it is the height of absurdity to suggest to rural Nebraska that "the plight of the farmers has been mitigated by the era of Eisenhower prosperity." We haven't the slightest notion where Kaltenborn has been keeping himself, but obviously it has been some place other than around these parts. Which is all right with us if he is going to spill that kind of nonsense.

And the teachers, our educators, pay good money for that kind of bunk!

The Teachers Speak

It is more than likely that the discussion of student discipline as presented by teachers who are here for this area's section of the Nebraska State Teachers Convention was more of a description of modern home conditions than a criticism of the children who occupy the classroom seats.

The teachers pulled no punches. When they referred to the decay of discipline they were not talking about delinquency. They were talking about children who are incorrigible at all—just kids who have become hard to handle because they do not get enough sleep nights, because they are distracted by too much entertainment and subject to too little regulation at home. The result is an indifferent, complacent, inattentive, sometimes naughty pupil for whom

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

Now, we are forced to conclude, we have had the last word—projecting infinite wisdom—in this controversy—both high and low—over continuance of the H-bomb tests. Up at Ord, Nebraska's enchanting United States Sen. Carl T. Curtis was reported in the news columns in part to have said this: "Candidate Stevenson's proposal to stop the testing of H-bombs reveals his present confusion. . . . Stevenson might as well propose that we stop testing rifles, submarines and medicine."

We recognize Sen. Curtis gets very little opportunity to read these days. If he did read before he opened his mouth, however, he would find that thus far the latest of scientific expression on continuing H-bomb tests supports Mr. Stevenson's position. The very same issue of

The Star which carried the news dispatch of Sen. Curtis' contribution to a Republican rally at Ord also referred to the fact that the Federation of American Scientists, speaking through its executive board, representing a 2,100-man scientist group, saw no confusion in the Stevenson proposal but actually went on record in support of it. These were its reasons: "It would usher in a break in the years of stalled negotiations, prevent or at least greatly retard development of nuclear weapons by those countries not now possessing them, lessen international tensions, and minimize world-wide concern over radio-active fall-out." Nor is that the only approval back of the Stevenson proposal. There have been many others, all impressive, reasoned and challenging. From Pasadena, Herbert Jehle, known to thousands of Nebraskans as a teacher in the University of Nebraska, a scientist in his own right, among the latest, says that Stevenson's proposal "has found a strong echo among scientists in this country, no doubt all over the world." Men of science are of the opinion, Jehle says, that the issue is not simply a technical one, to be decided by military experts. The continuing tests, we are told, have a prime effect of spreading fear and hatred among other nations who feel threatened by the tests. Now is the time, Jehle writes, to make some real effort to make peace possible. "That," he concludes, "is the decision I reached when the Nazis put me in prison camp for refusal to design weapons for them."

Not Time Yet For Aid To Satellites

WASHINGTON — A good many days before the Polish revolt, Allen Dulles, head of Central Intelligence, the younger, smarter brother of the secretary of state, predicted that what did happen would happen. He also predicted serious straining at the leash against Moscow, or give Moscow an excuse to barge into the picture even with public statements might either drive restless Poles back toward Moscow, or give Moscow an excuse to barge into the picture.

Finally he urged the Eisenhower administration to do something to encourage the satellite break-away. He found Ike leaders and State department strategists, however, much too preoccupied in the political campaign to do much serious Iron Curtain thinking.

In Washington, Allen Dulles, the much less publicized member of the Dulles family, is considered by far the brighter of the two brothers. Though he operates under a careful cloak of secrecy so that his mistakes are not known to the public, he has made few mistakes (his backing of Col. Nasser was the worst), and has called the shots with remarkable accuracy.

In this case, however, it looks as if the elder Dulles' brother's do-nothing policy re Poland was wiser than Allen's do-something policy.

Indeed complacency and reservation of effort compose a greater menace than incorrigibility for the latter by any measurement touches only a small minority while the former can affect all.

The testimony of these Nebraska teachers deserves immediate and concerned attention. That which they are talking about is truly formidable.

Over CBS TV the other night, John Foster Dulles reported to the public that he was doing very little to encourage Polish revolutionists. Dulles said this almost apologetically as if fumbling to figure out what could be done. In the course of this fumbling he said: "There are balloons." He referred to the freedom balloons which have been floated regularly and repeatedly across the border into Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary.

Despite Dulles' groping, every diplomatic observer who has followed the European scene closely figures that the best thing the United States can do right now is keep quiet, officially, and let the strong ferment inside Poland work itself out. For this government to barge into the picture even with public statements might either drive restless Poles back toward Moscow, or give Moscow an excuse to barge into the picture.

The quick, resentful Polish reaction to Eisenhower's political statement in Denver congratulating the Poles showed the wisdom of the elder Dulles' do-nothing policy, even if he arrived at it by accident.

KNOWN FOR YEARS—NOW OFFICIAL—HITLER IS DEAD

... Only Property He Left Is Valuable Painting

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany (UPI)—It's official now. Hitler is dead.

A civil court here in the foothills of the German Alps confirmed legally Thursday what the world has been sure of for years.

The court not only fixed the day and the year but the hour as well. An official notice, tacked up on the court's bulletin board, stated simply:

"Adolf Hitler, born April 20, 1889, in Braunau on Inn (Austria) is dead. The time of his death was established as the 30th of April, 1945, 1530 hours." (3:30 p.m.)

The Bavarian ministry of justice said in a 4½ page document made public at the same time "there can no longer exist the least doubt" that Hitler is dead.

The statement confirmed that Hitler shot himself to death in his Berlin bunker, as Russian troops swept into the city. Hitler committed suicide immediately after Eva Braun, the mistress he married the day before, swallowed poison. Their bodies were cremated and buried together.

KNOWN FOR YEARS—NOW OFFICIAL—HITLER IS DEAD

... Only Property He Left Is Valuable Painting

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany
—It's official now. Hitler is dead.

A civil court here in the foothills of the German Alps confirmed legally Thursday what the world has been sure of for years.

The court not only fixed the day and the year but the hour as well. An official notice, tacked up on the court's bulletin board, stated simply:

"Adolf Hitler, born April 20, 1889, in Braunau on Inn (Austria) is dead. The time of his death was established as the 30th of April, 1945, 1530 hours." (3:30 p.m.)

The Bavarian ministry of justice said in a 4½ page document made public at the same time "there can no longer exist the least doubt" that Hitler is dead.

The statement confirmed that Hitler shot himself to death in his Berlin bunker, as Russian troops swept into the city. Hitler committed suicide immediately after Eva Braun, the mistress he married the day before, swallowed poison. Their bodies were cremated and buried together.

Woman, Charged With Slaying 4, Faints In Court

CROWN POINT, Ind. (INS) — An attractive 26-year-old woman charged with the fatal shooting of her husband and three members of his family fainted Thursday as a Crown Point, Ind., prosecutor asked a criminal court grand jury to send her to the electric chair.

The woman, blonde Opal Collins, collapsed moments after prosecutor Floyd Collins pumped a rifle 17 times as he re-enacted the shootings in the Collins home last May 26.

Judge William J. Murray ordered a recess as Mrs. Collins was carried to his chambers to be reviewed.

She is under indictment for all four murders but is on trial for only one — the slaying of Mary Sue Collins, 11-year-old sister of her paraplegic husband, Ben Collins Jr.

The other victims were her husband's mother, Julia, and another of his sisters, Martha, 14.

Kaltenborn Stresses:

'Need To Understand Other Views'

By HARRIET ASHLEY
Star Staff Writer

"We need to understand the other person's point of view," H. V. Kaltenborn, noted news analyst, told the District I convention of the Nebraska State Education Association Thursday.

Speaking at the general business session, Kaltenborn noted the advancement of the "formerly inexperienced U. S. in becoming the leader of the world."

He emphasized the need for understanding other nations and said that the United States must be prepared for the challenge of an interdependent world.

"Perhaps the world is being integrated for its own destruction unless it is controlled," Kaltenborn said.

The United States has the greatest wealth, power, moral standards and respect, the analyst declared, and he emphasized that the government must work to keep these standards up.

Speaking on "We Make Our Own Breaks" was Dr. Cylvia A. Sorkin of St. Louis, Mo., business consultant and human relations personnel counselor.

"The most important work in the English language is 'you,'" Dr. Sorkin said.

"Our country was founded on the individuality and importance of people," she said.

Stressing the importance of public relations, Dr. Sorkin said, "We need to know and seek other people's opinions and be genuinely interested in them."

Dr. Sorkin said, "There is magic and power in words and you must look the student in the eye and give him your undivided attention."

She warned the teachers against acquiring irritating habits and related some of her personnel experiences to emphasize this point.

Carlot Award

KANSAS CITY (INS) — A pen of 15 head of Angus cattle won the Grand Champion carlot award at the American Royal Livestock Show. Owners are Karl Hoffman and his son, Jack, of Ida Grove, Ia.

Holroyd & House of Cedarvale, Kas., won the carlot championship feeder calves with 20 Hereford.

OMAHA (INS) — Omaha's Metropolitan Utilities, gas and water utility, made its second gas rate reduction within a year.

The new rate, to become effective January 1, will be of most benefit to the home-owner heating with gas. His saving will amount to 5 per cent or about $7.32 annually.

Board member Harold LeMar said the cut "will produce the lowest annual domestic space heating bill of any community in the area supplied by Northern Natural Gas."

Adlai, Estes Agree To Pre-Inauguration Ag Plan — If Elected

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, to serve with Kefauver and farm leaders on the Thursday night agreed that — if elected — they will shape up a farm program before they are inaugurated.

The Democratic nominees for President and Vice President, respectively, met at a dinner and discussed the last-lap strategy for the campaign.

"Senator Kefauver shares my feeling that we should not let 10 weeks go by — from Nov. 6 (election) to Jan. 20 (inauguration) — before getting ready for action," Stevenson said.

Clayton Fritchey, Stevenson's press secretary, and Dick Wallace, a Kefauver aide, filled in reporters on the closed door huddle.

Agreed

Stevenson related that he told Kefauver that they should not waste any time in getting a farm program ready for congressional action. He said Kefauver agreed fully, and he added:

"We already have a program to improve the farm situation, but we are going to organize a task force to put into final shape for quick action as soon as possible after taking office."

Stevenson said he will ask Sen. Ellender (D-La.) and Rep. Cooley (D-N.C.), chairmen, respectively of the Senate and House Agricultural Committees, to serve with Kefauver and farm leaders on the projected task force.

Kefauver said that — if elected — the task force will go to "all parts" of the United States to consult farmers and farm leaders about a program.

"One reason the Eisenhower administration has been so slow in getting things done," Stevenson said in the statement relayed by Fritchey, "is that when it came in to office the President started calling for studies instead of action."

Stevenson, Fritchey, Stevenson's press secretary, and Dick Wallace, a Kefauver aide, filled in reporters on the closed door huddle.

Scientists Warn Radiation From H-Tests May Be Past Danger Point

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (INS) — A group of scientists warned Thursday night that radiation from hydrogen bomb tests may have already passed the danger point in certain areas of the world.

The warning was contained in a report on the radiation hazard in "the rear zone" by the radiation hazards committee of the Federation of American Scientists.

The report noted that "it seems likely that the radiation hazard is more serious than is suggested by recent official statements."

Dr. Walter I. Selove, physicist at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Upton, Long Island, prepared the report. It was co-signed by Dr. Louis S. Osborne, physicist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the committee chairman. Professor Roy M. Weinstein, physicist, M.I.T., and Professor Herman T. Epstein, biophysicist at Brandeis University.

The committee said the amount of strontium-90 which is absorbed by humans depends upon the amount of calcium in the top-soil. Strontium is chemically similar to calcium and is absorbed with it.

Man Hurt As Truck Collides With Train

A 28-year-old Lincoln man was hospitalized with head injuries Thursday as the result of a panel truck-train collision at the A street crossing near 4th.

Lyle Aichele of 501½ So. Ist., a service station employee, was reported in "good" condition at a local hospital.

Attendants said he had a head concussion, a severe laceration behind an ear, and an ankle injury.

Aichele was driving a truck which was in collision about 8:11 a.m. Thursday with a Union Pacific freight train on a Council Bluffs, Ia., to Marysville, Kan., run.

Police said Aichele's truck was dragged about 300 feet after the impact, when the vehicle apparently hooked up on the diesel engine unit.

Engineer C. W. Sanders of Beloit told police that the train was traveling about 18 to 20 miles an hour.

The panel truck was badly damaged, but no damage resulted to the train, according to police. Railroad officials said a cattle-gate at the crossing was damaged, but had no estimate of the loss.

Adlai, Estes Agree To Pre-Inauguration Ag Plan — If Elected

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver, to serve with Kefauver and farm leaders on the projected task force.

The Democratic nominees for President and Vice President, respectively, met at a dinner and discussed the last-lap strategy for the campaign.

"Senator Kefauver shares my feeling that we should not let 10 weeks go by — from Nov. 6 (election) to Jan. 20 (inauguration) — before getting ready for action," Stevenson said.

Clayton Fritchey, Stevenson's press secretary, and Dick Wallace, a Kefauver aide, filled in reporters on the closed door huddle.

Agreed

Stevenson related that he told Kefauver that they should not waste any time in getting a farm program ready for congressional action. He said Kefauver agreed fully, and he added:

"We already have a program to improve the farm situation, but we are going to organize a task force to put into final shape for quick action as soon as possible after taking office."

Stevenson said he will ask Sen. Ellender (D-La.) and Rep. Cooley (D-N.C.), chairmen, respectively of the Senate and House Agriculture Committees, to serve with

Kefauver and farm leaders on the projected task force.

Kefauver said that — if elected — the task force will go to "all parts" of the United States to consult farmers and farm leaders about a program.

"One reason the Eisenhower administration has been so slow in getting things done," Stevenson said in the statement relayed by Fritchey, "is that when it came into office the President started calling for studies instead of action."

Jr., of Los Angeles; twin daughters, Mrs. Ed Hamann of Berkeley, Calif., and Sister Catherine Laboure of Los Angeles; sisters, Mrs. Rolfe Halligan of Lincoln, Mrs. Jessie Murray of Los Angeles and Mrs. Elizabeth Reed of Berkeley; a brother, Capt. "The strontium concentration in bones therefore depends on how much calcium is present to dilute the strontium fallout," the report said.

The committee noted that atomic energy commissioner W. F. Libby reported it would take two or three decades of the present type and amount of testing to increase the amount of strontium in humans to about 3 per cent of the maximum permissible concentration.

"A serious question must be recognized at this point," the committee said. "This 3 per cent is an average number, based on the average worldwide concentration of calcium in the topsoil."

But, the committee quoting Dr. Libby, said the concentration of calcium in topsoil varies widely.

Sorrell Attacks State Spending; Opposes Ton-Mile Tax Plan

KIMBALL, Neb. — Frank Sorrell, Democratic candidate for taxes, lashed out at Gov. Anderson here Thursday night on the situation. In discussing the present highway system, Sorrell said, "It is frightening to think of the future when the last Legislature reduced the state highway system by 700 miles and the governor signed the bill.

"This threw the burden of maintaining these roads on the counties without sufficient warning to allow for increased taxes."

Earlier Thursday at Cozad Sorrell took a firm stand against the proposed ton-mile tax which will be voted on in the Nov. 6 election.

"Consumer Tax"

"I am positively against the ton-mile tax," he said. "I will vote against it."

Sorrell explained that he is committed to oppose anything that would raise the personal property and real estate taxes in Nebraska and it is his opinion that the ton-mile tax would be a consumer tax.

He said he urged all others to vote against the proposed tax.

Sorrell was in Cozad for a meeting with Emil Barta, a delegate to the 1956 Democratic National convention, and with others in the community.

Following the dedication rite, the clergy and laity will proceed to St. Cecilia's Church where Msgr. Kealy will deliver the sermon.

"We will find funds to match federal aid on our regular systems first," he said.

At the end of the 13-year period set for construction of the new highway network, Ress said, "Nebraska should see all of the urgent needs on the present highway system corrected."

He said that urgent needs on Highway 3 may be eliminated in time.

Ress pointed out that Highway 3 has always received a good portion of the entire road budget. He said that the highway department will take bids Nov. 1 on over five-and-a-half million dollars worth of highway construction in 22 counties, including 13.9 miles on Highway 3 in Webster and Nuckolls Counties.

Ress said that both urgent and desirable improvements on Nebraska roads have been estimated to cost 221 million dollars, of which 122 millions are solely for urgent needs. Compared to the 1955 highway budget of 24 million, the figure sounds staggering. But Ress again pointed out that by match-

KIMBALL, Neb. — Frank Sorrell, Democratic candidate for governor, lashed out at Gov. Anderson here Thursday night on the question of taxes and on highway plans approved by him.

"The governor has increased taxes by adding $19,000,000 in state expenditures during his term in office," Sorrell asserted. "He makes his promise to reduce taxes by $1,000,000 next year appear rather insignificant."

Wishful Thinking

"On his record of spending state money during the first year of his administration, his promise to reduce spending during another two years in office sound like wishful thinking rather than a sincere at-

Girl, 9, Safe After Allnight Omaha Search

OMAHA (P)—A 9-year-old Omaha girl who was the object of an intensive overnight search was found safe Thursday morning.

She said she had failed to go directly home from school and then was afraid to go home. She said she spent the night in the open.

The girl is Carol Ann Perry, daughter of Army Capt. and Mrs. Francis R. Perry.

She was last seen after Wednesday classes at St. Barnard School in suburban Benson. Police searched through the night for the girl and by morning, when fresh crews of officers were assigned, the Douglas County sheriff's office and Omaha fire department also volunteered help.

Carol Ann was spotted near the Nebraska School for the Deaf which is located in the 3200 block on North 45th Street. The Perry home is at 4117 North 64th St., about two miles away.

The girl was seen by a bus rider who called detectives.

She told officers she had spent the night in a clump of weeds near the school. They said she apparently suffered no ill effects despite the cool overnight temperatures and light rain.

Overton Girl Wins Honors At K.C. Show

A Nebraska 4-H club girl from Overton took top honors in the 4-H meat judging and identification contest at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, Mo., this week.

Karen Edéal won the three blue ribbons given in the contest by placing first in both the meat judging and meat identification sections and first in the overall contest.

Philip Menke, Cozad, tied for fourth place in the meat identification contest.

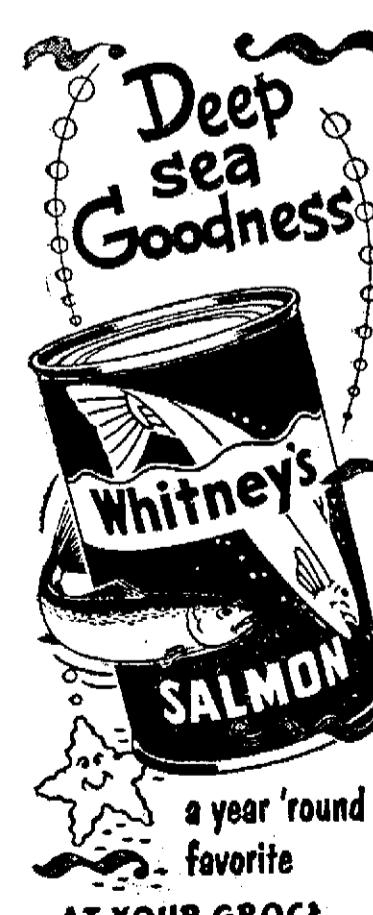

The Dawson County 4-H team, which represented Nebraska in the contest, placed third. Kansas and Oklahoma teams placed first and second respectively.

Team members in addition to Miss Edéal and Menke include Jim Seberger, Cozad, and Don Holbein, Eustis. Ted Doane, assistant Dawson County extension agent, coached the team.

Ex-Wymore Principal Teaching In Germany

WYMORE, Neb.—John M. Korslund, who was principal of the Wymore High School last year, is teaching at the American high school in Stuttgart, Germany, this term.

Prior to going to Wymore, Korslund was head of the Stella schools for two years and a high school teacher in Falls City for a year. He taught summer sessions at Fairbury Junior College.

Blair Hospital Dedication Set For Next Month

BLAIR, Neb.—Dedication of Blair's new Memorial Community Hospital is tentatively set for Nov. 18, according to Mrs. Harry Walker, hospital board member and fund drive chairman.

Estimated cost, including complete furnishings, is $299,000.

Air conditioning facilities have been installed in all rooms, but Mrs. Walker said a fund shortage halted installation of the system. It is hoped funds will be available for the work by next spring.

Plans for the new hospital were initiated three years ago. The present privately-operated Blair hospital will close when the new hospital opens.

Farmers continue to be the most important single group of buyers of farm real estate, obtained 65 per cent of all farms sold.

State's Farmland Value Hike Below Nation's Average

WASHINGTON (P)—Farmland generally was regarded as a good buy during the year ended last July — there was an average three per cent increase in farmland value over the nation.

Nebraska, however, wasn't quite up to the national average, having a two per cent increase.

A new Agriculture Department survey said Thursday the changes in value ranged from a 15 per cent rise in Florida to a 5 per cent decline in Colorado.

Farmers continue to be the most important single group of buyers of farm real estate, obtained 65 per cent of all farms sold.

SAC Competitive Mission Postponed

OMAHA (P)—The first competitive mission in the Strategic Air Command's fighter competition was postponed 24 hours Thursday because of bad weather.

A SAC spokesman explained that while the F34F jets of the 31st Strategic Fighter Wing, the first competing outfit, could have flown the mission the weather would have put it at a competitive disadvantage with groups which might have better weather.

The SAC competition will test the fighter units in both navigation and bombing.

A SAC spokesman said the weather was bad over the Grand Island area where the fighters were to be refueled as well as along the prescribed flying route.

Girl, 9, Safe After Allnight Omaha Search

OMAHA (P)—A 9-year-old Omaha girl who was the object of an intensive overnight search was found safe Thursday morning.

She said she had failed to go directly home from school and then was afraid to go home. She said she spent the night in the open.

The girl is Carol Ann Perry, daughter of Army Capt. and Mrs. Francis R. Perry.

She was last seen after Wednesday classes at St. Barnard School in suburban Benson. Police searched through the night for the girl and by morning, when fresh crews of officers were assigned, the Douglas County sheriff's office and Omaha fire department also volunteered help.

Carol Ann was spotted near the Nebraska School for the Deaf which is located in the 3200 block on North 45th Street. The Perry home is at 4117 North 64th St., about two miles away.

The girl was seen by a bus rider who called detectives.

She told officers she had spent the night in a clump of weeds near the school. They said she apparently suffered no ill effects despite the cool overnight temperatures and light rain.

Karen Edeal won the three blue ribbons given in the contest by placing first in both the meat judging and meat identification sections and first in the overall contest.

Philip Menke, Cozad, tied for fourth place in the meat identification contest.

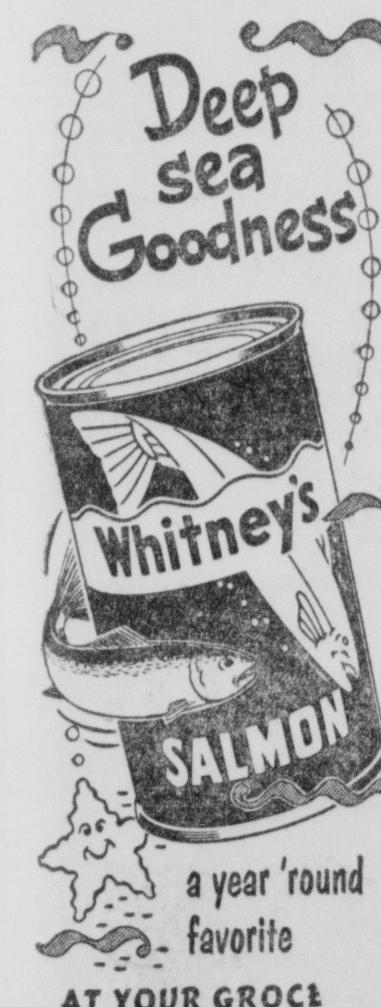

The Dawson County 4-H team, which represented Nebraska in the contest, placed third. Kansas and Oklahoma teams placed first and second respectively.

Team members in addition to Miss Edeal and Menke include Jim Seberger, Cozad, and Don Holbein, Eustis. Ted Doane, assistant Dawson County extension agent, coached the team.

WYMORE, Neb.—John M. Korslund, who was principal of the Wymore High School last year, is teaching at the American high school in Stuttgart, Germany, this term.

Prior to going to Wymore, Korslund was head of the Stella schools for two years and a high school teacher in Falls City for a year. He taught summer sessions at Fairbury Junior College.

Blair Hospital Dedication Set For Next Month

BLAIR, Neb.—Dedication of Blair's new Memorial Community Hospital is tentatively set for Nov. 18, according to Mrs. Harry Walker, hospital board member and fund drive chairman.

Estimated cost, including complete furnishings, is $290,000.

Air conditioning facilities have been installed in all rooms, but Mrs. Walker said a fund shortage halted installation of the system. It is hoped funds will be available for the work by next spring.

Plans for the new hospital were initiated three years ago. The present privately-operated Blair hospital will close when the new hospital opens.

State's Farmland Value Hike Below Nation's Average

WASHINGTON (P)—Farmland generally was regarded as a good buy during the year ended last July—there was an average three per cent increase in farmland value over the nation.

Nebraska, however, wasn't quite up to the national average, having a two per cent increase.

A new Agriculture Department survey said Thursday the changes in value ranged from a 15 per cent rise in Florida to a 5 per cent decline in Colorado.

Farmers continue to be the most important single group of buyers of farm real estate, obtained 65 per cent of all farms sold.

SAC Competitive Mission Postponed

OMAHA (P)—The first competitive mission in the Strategic Air Command's fighter competition was postponed 24 hours Thursday because of bad weather.

A SAC spokesman explained that while the F84F jets of the 31st Strategic Fighter Wing, the first competing outfit, could have flown the mission the weather would have put it at a competitive disadvantage with groups which might have better weather.

The SAC competition will test the fighter units in both navigation and bombing.

A SAC spokesman said the weather was bad over the Grand Island area where the fighters were to be refueled as well as along the prescribed flying route.

Estes Charges GOP Ag Program 'One Big Flop'; Claims Farmer Betrayed

By THOMAS J. FOLEY
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (INS)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), accused the Eisenhower administration Thursday of betraying the American farmer and said the GOP farm program was "one big flop".

In a "farm day" rally in Springfield, with Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic vice presidential candidate said:

"Time and time again, you have seen direct promises that were made to you by candidate Eisenhower flatly repudiated by President Eisenhower."

Kefauver said the Republicans "have a lot of gall to ask us to ask for the support of farmers."

Defendant Is Jailed For 'Intoxication'

... After Late Entry
A defendant showed up for jury trial Wednesday—but some 45 minutes late.

The judge, attorneys and prospective jurors had been somewhat impatiently awaiting the appearance of Mrs. Fern Oelling, 28, defendant in a misdemeanor appeal.

She is charged with contributing to the delinquency of four children in connection with an alleged April 15 incident, in which authorities reportedly found the children in a "neglected condition" and "excessive drinking in a three room house" and filed charges against seven adults.

As the defendant strolled into the courtroom and took her place at the counsel table, attorneys went into a hastily-called conference in the judge's chambers.

Thereafter, the sheriff and deputy appeared and removed the defendant from the courtroom, but not without a struggle.

She was immediately booked for "intoxication" at the county jail.

Lincolnite Pleads Guilty To 'Neglect'

A father of four children changed his plea to guilty in Lancaster District Court on a charge of contributing to their delinquency.

Clyde Logan, 47, of 2537 No. 12th had appealed from a County Court conviction and a $100 fine on the charge.

He was one of seven adults charged in connection with an April 15 incident in which authorities allegedly found "excessive drinking in a three-room house" and the children in a "neglected condition."

Judge John L. Polk deferred sentencing pending an investigation by the adult probation officer.

Nixon Says This Is Time For Ike Kind Of Wisdom

By JOE HALL
ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 26 — Vice President Nixon said Thursday that bold Eisenhower decisiveness can exploit the opportunity offered the free world by anti-Russian riots in Hungary and Poland whereas "weak Stevenson in decision" could not.

Nixon advanced this new argument for the re-election of President Eisenhower as he took notice publicly for the first time of the ferment in the satellite nations.

Out of the dramatic developments, he said in a prepared speech, "may come a new era in which the monolithic face of global communism will be weakened."

"We don't know yet exactly what may emerge," he went on.

"But we do know that now is the critical hour when the free world, under firm and experienced leadership, can assist these liberty-loving people who so desperately want our help."

"High Command"

"This is a time for the Eisenhower kind of wisdom, born of long years of high command, rather than the Stevenson brand which comes second-hand from advisers whose incredibly bad judgment has been exposed in recent days."

The vice president said, "we can only conclude from witnessing Mr. Stevenson's weak, wishy-washy, indecisive and confused conduct during this campaign that he would be putty in the hands of men like Khrushchev and Bulgan-

"Nixon flew here for a night rally after a tough day of campaigning in Chicago and its suburbs which his aides called one of the most satisfying since he has been on the road.

Large and generally friendly crowds swirled about his car as he rode in a parade down Chicago's State St. in the Loop area at the noon hour. A few Democratic signs were displayed along the route, however, including one that read, "Stick With Ike, Get Stick With Dick."

"Outstanding"

In the parade, he rode with his wife, Pat, and Gov. William G. Stratton. Stratton accompanied him throughout the day and once introduced him as "one of the outstanding Americans of our time."

The vice president also attracted audiences of several thousand at two morning appearances in the Chicago suburban area. He hit heavily the theme that the Eisenhower administration has stabilized the cost of living.

In the Park Forest development, he noted that he had seen many Stevenson pictures as well as a large number of Eisenhowers, and said he was glad of this because "it is important that we have two strong political parties."

Nixon also chose Chicago, with its many minority groups, for a speech lauding the Republican record on civil rights.

Talking at ballroom in a predominantly Negro area, he declared that the Eisenhower administration would be able to carry out its civil rights pledges but that the Democrats could not do so because of their badly split Northern and Southern wings.

$50,000 Suit Filed Concerning Kiddie Train Mishap Here

Charles W. Wilbur of 3162 Klecker Ct. has filed a $50,000 personal injury suit for his son, Jerry Lee, 12, in connection with the Aug. 19 miniature train mishap at Capitol Beach.

Named defendant in Lancaster District Court was Central Realty and Investment Co., as owner and operator of the amusement park.

The petition alleges that young Wilbur suffered a compound leg fracture, torn muscles and nerves, and other injuries when he was "thrown from the train" in the accident.

Some 28 children were reportedly hospitalized or treated for injuries in the miniature train mishap.

The Wilbur suit alleges "negligence and carelessness in the operation, maintenance and use of the train."

Nixon Says This Is Time For Ike Kind Of Wisdom

By JOE HALL

ROCKFORD, Ill. — Vice President Nixon said Thursday that "bold Eisenhower decisiveness can exploit the opportunity offered the free world by anti-Russian riots in Hungary and Poland whereas 'weak Stevenson indecision' could not.

Nixon advanced this new argument for the re-election of President Eisenhower as he took notice publicly for the first time of the ferment in the satellite nations.

Out of the dramatic developments, he said in a prepared speech, "may come a new era in which the monolithic face of global communism will be weakened."

"We don't know yet exactly what may emerge," he went on.

"But we do know that now is the critical hour when the free world, under firm and experienced leadership, can assist these liberty-loving people who so desperately want our help."

'High Command'

This is a time for the Eisenhower kind of wisdom, born of long years of high command, rather than the Stevenson brand which comes second-hand from advisers whose incredibly bad judgment has been exposed in recent days."

The vice president said, "we can only conclude from witnessing Mr. Stevenson's weak, wishy-washy, indecisive and confused conduct during this campaign that he would be putty in the hands of men like Khrushchev and Bulganin."

Nixon flew here for a night rally after a tough day of campaigning in Chicago and its suburbs which his aides called one of the most satisfying since he has been on the road.

Large and generally friendly crowds swirled about his car as he rode in a parade down Chicago's State St. in the Loop area at the noon hour. A few Democratic signs were displayed along the route, however, including one that read, "Stick With Ike, Get Stuck With Dick."

'Outstanding'

In the parade, he rode with his wife, Pat, and Gov. William G. Stratton. Stratton accompanied him throughout the day and once introduced him as "one of the out-

$50,000 Suit Filed Concerning Kiddie Train Mishap Here

Charles W. Wilbur of 3162 Kleckner Ct. has filed a $50,000 personal injury suit for his son, Jerry Lee, 12, in connection with the Aug. 19 miniature train mishap at Capitol Beach.

Named defendant in Lancaster District Court was Central Realty and Investment Co., as owner and operator of the amusement park.

The petition alleges that young Wilbur suffered a compound leg fracture, torn muscles and nerves, and other injuries when he was "thrown from the train" in the accident.

Some 28 children were reportedly hospitalized or treated for injuries in the miniature train mishap.

The Wilbur suit alleges "negligence and carelessness in the operation, maintenance and use of the train."

Elderly Man Dies In Grease Pit Fall

SUTHERLAND, Neb. — Peter Gunderson, 88, former Sutherland rancher who had recently been living at North Platte, died at the Sutherland hospital Thursday of a fractured skull. He had gone to Sutherland to visit and while waiting at a filling station for a ride to North Platte accidentally fell into a grease pit.

LONDON — Moscow radio gave Russian listeners a detailed report of Hungarian Premier Nagy's speech but omitted his reference to possible negotiations on withdrawal of Soviet troops.

The Moscow broadcast said,

"life is gradually returning to normal in Budapest."

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

We certainly could tell that Teacher's Convention had rolled around this week end, for all the children in the South Hills community were either enjoying that extra hour of sleep on Thursday and Friday—or up with the break of dawn ready to begin a day of fun and activity—or were making plans with their families for a weekend jaunt to visit relatives.

And the Peter Rogachi youngsters, Gloria, Terry and Cheryl, were three of the children making such plans. With their parents they leave today for a long weekend visit in Kansas where they will visit Mr. Rogachi's mother, Mrs. C. Rogachi, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Shores and their four children in Leavenworth.

When Mrs. James Metz entertained a group of her neighbors at a coffee on Tuesday morning, the party was to honor Mrs. Emil Skov who was presented with a pink and blue one-gift shower. The guest list included Mrs. Herman Hempel, Mrs. John Kelly, Mrs. James May, Mrs. Merlin Rice, Mrs. Loren Beckler, Mrs. Ben Heard, Mrs. Robert Kissinger, Mrs. A. Swanson, Mrs. A. R. Hoenniger, and Mrs. Skov's mother, Mrs. G. R. Shattuck.

A special treat for seven fifth grade pupils at Merle Beattie School, several of whom are from the South Hills area, is the newly organized Girl Scout troop. Mrs. Ben Heard and Mrs. David Breslow, leaders of the group, accompanied the members on a field trip to Van Dorn Park, for their first gathering on Thursday

Charter Revision Committee Hears New, Varied Suggestions

Friday, October 26, 1956 THE LINCOLN STAR 15

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

The form of city government continued to dominate hearings by the Charter Revision Committee as various degrees and types of changes were proposed at Thursday session.

The greatest departure from the present form of government was found in recommendations from attorney Albert S. Johnston. He called for elimination from the charter of anything that could be handled in a legislative way.

He suggested a 15 to 25-member legislative group, elected from districts or wards in the city. Affairs of the city, he said, could be handled on the executive level under laws enacted by the legislative group.

The legislative group, he said, would only need to meet perhaps once a year. He cited the state government as an example to be followed by the city.

A single executive head of the city such as a strong mayor or preferably a city manager was suggested by L. E. Aylsworth, former political science instructor at the University of Nebraska. The present charter, Aylsworth said, "tears the administrative system apart" as it makes no provision for unified leadership, control and responsibility.

Another advocate of the district ward system of Council representation was County Commissioner Del Liemann. The Commissioner also proposed more pay for members of the City Council and changes in the charter to permit consolidation of city and county taxing and assessing divisions.

More authority for the Lincoln

City Libraries board of directors was proposed by Librarian Charles Dalrymple. Authority to provide library facilities, he said, should be vested in the board rather than the City Council.

Dalrymple also recommended charter authority for the board to adopt a special tax levy for capital improvements. Such improvements now, he said, would have to come out of the general operating budget which is limited by state statutes.

A former city attorney, Max Kier, appeared before the Committee as chairman of the Air Base Coordinating Council. He urged charter authority for the city to issue revenue or self liquidating bonds without a vote of the people.

Delegate Responsibility

He also called for Council authority to delegate more of its responsibilities.

Mrs. Harold Deems appeared as a representative of the Lincoln Council of Parent-Teachers Association. She stressed the relationship of zoning, traffic, parks, recreation and other matters to the educational system.

City Council representation by districts was also proposed by Mrs. Elmer Brown.

Charles Owen, service station operator at 17th and South, discussed with the Committee the relation of commodity sales and prices.

Next week, the Committee will move its public hearings into the suburbs. A 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held Tuesday in the Hayward School auditorium at 1215 No. 9th.

At 4 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 1, hearings will be held in the Northeast High School auditorium at 63rd and Baldwin. At 7:30 p.m. that same day, the hearing place will be in the youth room of the Seventh-day Adventist Church at 4015 So. 49th.

Merit System Being Studied For Setting Teacher Salaries

Miss Margaret Perry, who was selected as "Teacher of the Year" in 1955 by a national magazine, told a meeting of classroom teachers Thursday that the National Education Association is working on a merit system for teachers salaries.

Miss Perry, who joined the staff of the NEA Department of Classroom Teachers this year, said that Miss Perry while the present system uses education and experience as a basis, it is hoped that individual teacher merit may some day become a part of teachers salaries.

Integrationists Win Test Case

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—The Federal Court of Appeals ruled Thursday in a test case that administrators in desegregating public schools have a federal right to be free from "direct and deliberate interference."

The decision is expected to help determine the government's course of action in school integration trouble spots across the nation.

The court made its ruling in upholding a permanent Federal District Court injunction prohibiting segregationist groups from interfering with the integration program in the public schools at Roxie, Ark.

The decision was against White America, Inc., the White Citizens Council of Arkansas, the Citizens Committee representing segregation in the Roxie schools, and four individuals who had fought desegregation of the Roxie schools.

The court held that the Roxie school board members, in putting 25 Negro youngsters into classes with about 1,000 white pupils last year, were "mindful of their obligation" to obey the Constitution.

It was not clear whether the segregationists will appeal the decision to the Supreme Court.

The state of Georgia had filed a brief in the case contending the injunction violated the segregationists' rights of free speech and public assembly.

Jordan Gets Jets As Egyptian Gift

AMMAN, Jordan, Oct. 25—Egypt turned over five British-type jet fighter planes to Jordan's army Thursday.

The Egyptian army's commander-in-chief, Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, handed over the jets to the Jordan army chief of staff, Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, at Amman military airport. King Hussein also was present.

The gift was the largest Egyptian contribution yet to Jordan in the drive to build up this country's strength following the deterioration of the Israeli-Jordan frontier situation in recent weeks.

Wausau Gets Out 99.1% Of Voters

WAUSAU, Wis., Oct. 25—Wausau's drive to get out the vote for the November election by registering all of the city's 18,946 eligible voters was 99.1 per cent successful.

Of the 187 city residents not signed up, about 80 were members of a religious group who declined on theological grounds to take part.

Biggest late surge in registration came during the last two days, when the Wausau Record-Herald offered to donate $5 to a voter's favorite charity if he made the rolls in time.

The newspaper said it was paying out about $2,500 on behalf of the 500 latecomers.

BAERING DOWN ON THE NEWS By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We're approaching the cynosure of the moot in the Ides of November.

There's ominous buzzing on the two-party bee-line.

Never before has there been such a partisan galaxy of gentlemen of distinction. Did you ever realize that communication has changed since 1776?

And that today Paul Revere would use the old church steeples for a television antenna?

There is a nucleus of temporary immortals anxious to ensnare their mockers on the Star-Spangled payroll. And Thomas Jefferson was right when he said the mill will never grind with the eggs that have been scrambled.

Considering the possibilities of weighing the future we ask you to keep your thumb off the scales.

Casey Cops Fifth AL Pilot Honor

By SHELDON SAKOWITZ
NEW YORK (AP) — Charles Dillon (Casey) Stengel, who guided his New York Yankees to a runaway in the 1956 pennant race, today was named American League Manager-of-the-Year in a landslide victory.

The cagy "Perfesser" drew 164 of the 207 ballots cast by members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America in the annual Associated Press poll. The honor climaxed an outstanding season for the 65-year-old Stengel, who also regained the world's championship from the Brooklyn Dodgers after losing the title in 1955.

The grizzled manipulator of lineups and exponent of double-talk has received the Manager-of-the-Year accolade five times in the last eight seasons, having won the award last in 1953. He also was chosen in 1949, 1950 and 1952.

Five other managers received recognition. Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles was runner-up with 14 votes. Richards did an excellent job in steering the patch-work Orioles to a sixth-place finish after many of the experts had tabbed them for last place in the pre-season forecasts.

Marty Marion collected 13 votes for piloting his Chicago White Sox to third place. Trailing the Yanks by only two games going into July, the White Sox faltered at that point to end up 12 games off the pace.

Bucky Harris of the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland's Al Lopez, both of whom "resigned" their managerial posts at the end of the season, drew scattered votes. Harris, whose Tigers wound up fifth, was named on 10 ballots. Lopez, piloting the Tribe to another second-place finish, was picked on four.

Mike (Pinky) Higgins, the A.L. Manager-of-the-Year in 1955 when he led the Boston Red Sox to a surprise fourth-place finish as a freshman skipper, could muster only two votes. He again was fourth in 1956, but this time the Red Sox were expected to challenge the leaders.

For Stengel, the 1956 pennant was his seventh in eight seasons and he followed it with his sixth World Series success. Casey, who never finished higher than fifth in nine seasons as a National League manager, needs only one more pennant to tie Joe McCarthy's record as the all-time winningest Yankee pilot. Only the late Connie Mack, who captured nine flags with the Philadelphia A's ever won more than eight in a year.

The 1956 pennant was relatively easy for the resident of Glendale, Calif. The Yanks took the lead on May 16 and clinched the flag on Sept. 18.

Although they never had less than a seven-game lead after the All-Star game break, the Yanks, at times, appeared hard-pressed to remain ahead. But it was Stengel, a master juggler, who utilized his favorite formula — a bench rich in reserves and relief work for every pitcher on the club — to achieve the job.

36 Make Trip To Boulder

By DON BRYANT
Sports Editor, The Star

Coach Pete Elliott Thursday named a 36-man traveling squad for the important Big Seven clash with Colorado at Boulder Saturday. The Huskers will go to Denver Friday morning and will headquartered at the Park Lane Hotel, returning to Lincoln Saturday night after the game.

Elliott said he planned to go along with the same starters who opened against Indiana, with the exception of the quarterback post. George Harshman, who missed last week's game because of an attack of flu will probably start against the Buffs.

Thursday the squad reviewed the defenses for Colorado's power-laden single wing and drilled on offense, minus contact.

Elliott announced that Halfback Darrel Pinkston, Grand Island soph, injured a knee in practice and will not play against Colorado Saturday.

The traveling roster:

Ends—Mike Lee, Marlin Hilding, Howard McVay, Clarence Cook, Bill Edwards, Stuart Howerton; Charles Tsoukalas.

Tackles—Don Kampe, Jack Fleming, Jerry Miller, Jerry Petersen, Mai Dohrmann, Dick Klein.

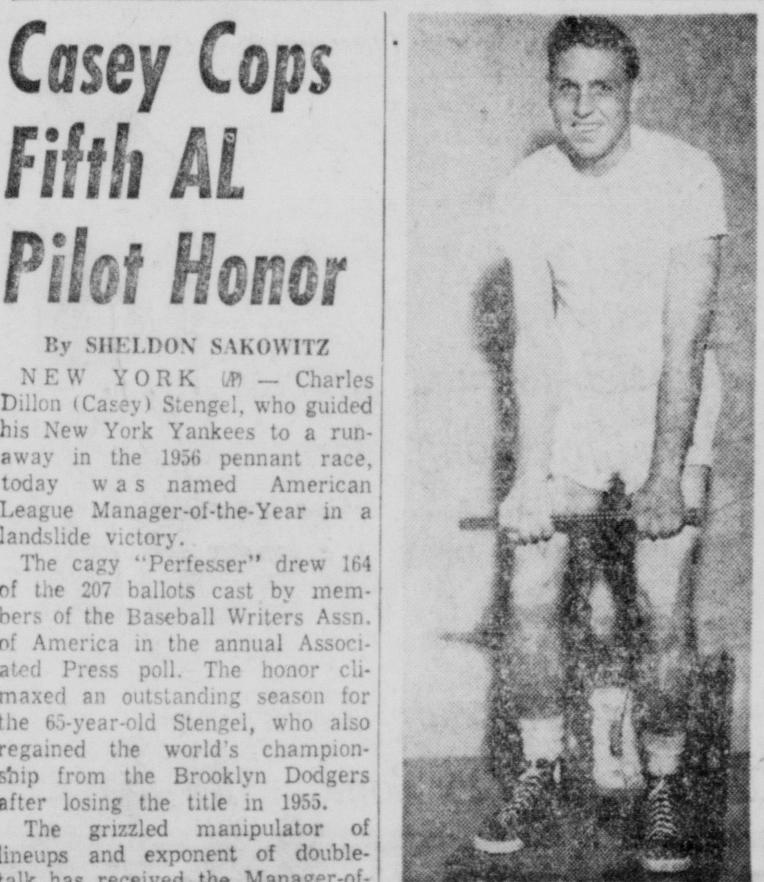

Guards—LaVerne Torzon, Jim Murphy, Art Klein, Ernie English, Larry Jones, Jerry Murphy.

Center—Bob Berguin, Max Kitzelman, Dick Prusin, Bob Lyle.

Quarterbacks—George Harshman, Roy Scheffing, Jerry Petersen, Dean Fleck.

Halfbacks—Bill Hawkins, Larry Naviaux, Frank Nappi, Willie Greenlaw, Leo George, George Giese.

Fullbacks—Jerry Brown, Dick McCashan, Doug Thomas.

'The Menace'

Dennis "the menace" Mendyk, Michigan State's breakaway half-back, who broke the back of Notre Dame last week in the Spartans' 47-14 romp, is shown here testing his strength with an apparatus used in one of his physical education courses. The 190 pound senior has finally come into his own in the powerful Michigan State backfield this past three years.

POINT BLANK

By Don Bryant
Sports Editor, The Star

This is the week of golden opportunity for the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

They get a crack at Colorado, currently leading the Big Seven with a 3-0 record and a top candidate for the New Year's date in the Orange Bowl.

Coach Pete Elliott's batters will be underdogs, mainly because of three factors:

1. Colorado defeated Iowa State, 52-0; Nebraska nipped the Cyclones, 9-7.

2. Colorado defeated Kansas State, 34-0; Kansas State edged Nebraska, 10-7.

3. The game will be played at the Buffalo's Boulder ball-yard.

But past records don't mean much when the Huskers and the Buffs renew their heated rivalry, that has become a "go-for-broke" game for both clubs.

Nebraska will be trying for a repeat of the 1954 stink which saw the underdog Huskers romp 20-6 and then proceed to land the Orange Bowl berth.

A rugged fight is on tap and the Huskers think they can win it—and an all-out effort would turn the trick.

Last week's 23-8 mark makes the season percentage .779. This week it looks like:

Status Of Hornung Secret Until Irish-OU Kickoff

Switch To Halfback Not Definite

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Whether star quarterback Paul Hornung of Notre Dame will be able to play his regular position or must shift to halfback won't be determined until the underdog Irish square off against Oklahoma's unbeaten Sooners Saturday.

Irish Coach Terry Brennan noted that Hornung, whose left thumb is dislocated, was able to take snapbacks from center Thursday for the first time since he was injured in a 47-14 thrashing by Michigan State last Saturday.

Hornung handled the ball fairly well, but reported his thumb still very sore.

Saturday, if Hornung cannot handle the ball at quarterback, Brennan said, he will be shifted to halfback.

Oklahoma's Sooners arrived Thursday by special plane and immediately went to Michigan City, Ind., 35 miles away, for a work out at Ames Field. The Sooners also will drill at Ames Friday.

Nation's No. 2 Team

The Sooners, unbeaten in four starts, rank second behind Michigan State in the AP's national poll. It was Michigan State's rout of Notre Dame which moved the Spartans ahead of the Sooners in the poll.

Prior to the drill, Brennan said Thursday afternoon's workout would determine if Hornung, who leads the Irish in virtually every offensive department, would be shifted to halfback.

However, the dummy session made Brennan postpone a decision. If Hornung plays at halfback, the Notre Dame quarterback will be an untried sophomore, Bob Williams. Hornung's regular replacement, Larry Cooke is sidelined with a sprained ankle.

Williams, 6 feet, 2, 185-pounder from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., has not played a single minute this season. He was injured early in the fall practice.

Fairmont Seeks Game

FAIRMONT—Fairmont High is seeking an eight-man football opponent for Friday, Nov. 2. Fairmont has won five and lost one to date.

Anyone interested should contact Coach Roy Moore at Fairmont. Moore said Fairmont will play at home or away on that date.

Exeter Game Changed

EXETER—The Exeter-McCool Junction high school eight-man football game originally scheduled to be played at McCool Junction Friday afternoon, Nov. 8, has been switched to Exeter. The game will start at 8 p.m.

This probably is the first time two major colleges have changed the date of a game because of a TV conflict. The Aggies and the Kansas figured that while some people might turn out to see their hardly-successful teams, most of the fans in the vicinity would prefer to spend Saturday afternoon watching record-seeking Oklahoma University go against Notre Dame in the national television Game of the Week.

Kansas, a team with a rather porous defense, scored on Oklahoma last week but took the usual beating and has won only one game this season. Oklahoma A&M has a 2-2-1 record for five games.

Two other Friday contests send George Washington, tied but unbeaten pace-setter in the Southern Conference, against victory-less William and Mary and New Mexico against Denver in a Skyline Conference game.

Status Of Hornung Secret Until Irish-OU Kickoff

Switch To Halfback Not Definite

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Whether star quarterback Paul Hornung of Notre Dame will be able to play his regular position or must shift to halfback won't be determined until the underdog Irish square off against Oklahoma's unbeaten Sooners Saturday.

Irish Coach Terry Brennan noted that Hornung, whose left thumb is dislocated, was able to take snaps from center Thursday for the first time since he was injured in a 47-12 thrashing by Michigan State last Saturday.

Hornung handled the ball fairly well, but reported his thumb still very sore.

Saturday, if Hornung cannot handle the ball at quarterback, Brennan said, he will be shifted to halfback.

Oklahoma's Sooners arrived Thursday by special plane and immediately went to Michigan City, Ind., 35 miles away, for a work out at Ames Field. The Sooners also will drill at Ames Friday.

Nation's No. 2 Team

The Sooners, unbeaten in four starts, rank second behind Michigan State in the AP's national poll. It was Michigan State's rout of Notre Dame which moved the Spartans ahead of the Sooners in the poll.

Prior to the drill, Brennan said Thursday afternoon's workout would determine if Hornung, who leads the Irish in virtually every offensive department, would be shifted to halfback.

However, the dummy session made Brennan postpone a decision. If Hornung plays at halfback, the Notre Dame quarterback will be an untried sophomore, Bob Williams. Hornung's regular replacement, Larry Cooke is sidelined with a sprained ankle.

Williams, 6 feet, 2, 185-pounder from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., has not played a single minute this season. He was injured early in the fall practice.

Another big one tonight sends Crete to Omaha Westside. This should be the high spot on Crete's tough schedule. Crete, the Class B leader, is given the nod in this corner but it should be a dandy scrap.

Choices in other top games: Omaha South over Lincoln High-Packers gunning for 5th straight win, should handle Lipscomb.

North Plate over Scottsbluff—Home field edge won't be enough for Bearcats to overcome North Plate.

Cheyenne over Holdrege—Could be a close one; Holdrege trying to bounce back after two straight setbacks.

Chadron over Hemingford—Chadron hungry for seventh win without a loss.

Pius X over Omaha St. Joe—Up-and-coming Johawks haven't come up enough to overcome Pius X.

Ogallala over Gothenburg—This is a big one for Ogallala, trying to regain lost prestige.

Broken Bow over Loup City—Red Raiders might be tough hurdle for fast-moving Bow team.

Others: Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson over Omaha Benson, Gering over Bridgeport, Bayard over Kimball, Alma over Arapahoe, Ravenna over Ord, Gordon over Crawford.

The schedule:

11-MAN GAMES

Omaha South Lincoln High, Omaha St. Joseph at Pius X, Loup City at Broken Bow, Arapahoe at Alma, Bayard at Kimball, Bridgeport at Gering, Chadron at Hemingford, Holdrege, Corral, Crawford at Grand Island, Gothenburg at Ogallala, Jellico, S. YOU BE THE QUARTERBACK ANSWER

4. Power play off tackle. Worst call. You need more yards than you are likely to get on this one.

3. Shift left half and run him off guard. Same as our second choice except you can't expect the yards on a quick opener you can on an end sweep.

2. Shift left half and run around end. Iowa scored on Notre Dame in 1939 by shifting Nile Kinnick to right half for the touchdown play, so it certainly can't be called bad strategy.

1. Quick pitch around own left end. Best call. You could catch the Kansas defense napping with this one.

Bears Okayed After Attack

WACO, Tex. (AP)—The Baylor University football team, almost entirely recovered from an attack of food poisoning Tuesday night, were to work out under the lights Thursday in preparation for their crucial Southwest Conference tilt against Texas A&M Saturday.

Trainer Weaver Jordan said Thursday "the Bears are doing fine" and Dr. Horace Trippet, team physician, said he believed the players would be back to full strength by game time Saturday.

Saturday night's game is of national importance as the Aggies are rated seventh in the country in the current Associated Press poll and the Baylor Bears eighth.

Coach Sam Boyd blamed the poisoning on meat which the men ate in the dining room of the athlete's dormitory. A total of 11 men, including track, basketball and baseball team members, were stricken.

Wednesday's football practice was cancelled.

Bahama, Gonzalez Fight At Garden

NEW YORK (AP)—Yama Bahama and Tex Gonzales, a pair of eager 23-year-old middleweights, will try to break into the charmed circle of rated fighters Friday night in their 10-round match at Madison Square Garden.

The scrap, scheduled for 8 p.m. EST, will be carried on network radio and television (NBC). As usual, two judges and a referee will score the contest by rounds with a supplementary point system.

Bahama, owner of a flashy left had a 23-fight winning streak until he met Pat Lowry at Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 9. Bahama's manager, Bobby Melnick, claimed his fighter was announced as the winner but the decision was changed as he was leaving the arena. In any event, it went into Yama's record as a defeat.

Texas Still With Price

AUSTIN (AP)—University of Texas sources said Thursday no one in a responsible position had considered the replacing of Head Football Coach Ed Price.

Earlier Thursday, the university's poor football record this season apparently caused the hanging in effigy of Price on business building across from the campus. A sign attached to the dummy, made of discarded clothing, said: "So long, Ed, thumbs down."

The effigy drew a small crowd in which some turned their thumbs down and a few held them up for the coach.

"There is absolutely nothing official to all this," said Claude W. Voyles, Austin member of the board of regents. "Price has not tendered his resignation and we have not been asked to act upon it."

Herman Jones, president of the Texas Ex-Students Assn., said, "I have not heard of any one in a responsible position that has made a move toward getting a new coach. His present contract has another year to run."

Price has one more year on a 3-year contract at $12,500 a year.

Rumors circulated after last season's 5-5 record that Price planned to resign and ask for another job in the athletic department.

Price is under fire from some alumni this season as a result of the Steers' 1-4 record so far.

During last Saturday night's game, which Texas lost 32-14 to Arkansas, some college students chanted, "We want Price."

Price came to the university in 1929 as a star athlete from Corsicana High School. After graduation he coached at Hillsboro and El Paso High School, then returned to Texas in 1936 as a freshman coach. He was in military service from 1942 to 1945 and became head coach in 1951.

Texas tied for third in the conference in 1951, won the undisputed title in 1952, tied for first in 1953, was fifth in 1954 and third last year. The 1953 team, rated 10th in the nation, downed Tennessee 16-0 in the Cotton Bowl.

State Hunters Show Success In 1955

The average Nebraska hunter bagged 9.76 ducks, 4.48 pheasants and 4.33 bobwhite quail during the 1955 hunting season, a Game Commission survey showed Thursday.

Statistics were obtained by sending questionnaires to 6,951 resident hunting permit buyers. More than 3,200 responded.

The mean seasonal duck bag was 49.5 per cent greater than the year before. Mallards, which constituted 73 per cent of the 1955 duck kill, made up most of the increase over 1954.

The survey showed that 61.7 per cent of the hunting permit buyers, or 104,800, hunted pheasants. The 4.48 birds per man indicates a kill of 466,800 cock pheasants last year.

The estimated grouse harvest totaled 15,400 birds, shot by 7,092 hunters who averaged 2.17 grouse for the season and 1.31 birds per day of hunting during the give-day season.

Exterminator carried 132 pounds when he won the Laurel Handicap at the age of 7 in 1922.

FORD TRUCKS COST LESS

...less to own...less to run...last longer, too!

Before you buy your next truck, look at both sides of Ford's story of value: what you get and what it costs. You'll like what you see.

Look at the costs. Ford's first cost is low. Resale value is high. Ford's Short Stroke engines are designed for less friction, less wear, lower running costs. Maintenance costs are lower, too, because Ford trucks are built stronger for rugged long life. And a 10-million truck study proves Ford trucks last longer.

Look at what you get and you'll see you get more for your money in a Ford. For example, only Ford gives you modern Short Stroke power in every truck, V-8 or Six. Sodium-cooled exhaust valves in Heavy Duty engines run up to 225° cooler, last longer. More comfort with a Driver

DELAPELLE'S
POSTCARD

Nothing would do the other day but I must go down and buy a suit. This is the trouble with this dressed-up modern world. You wear a suit four or five years, just long enough to get used to it, and suddenly everybody is talking about how you should get a new one.

All the ads are for the Ivy look. And anybody who wears drapes is a square. Or you must wear leather trimming on your pockets in order to succeed. Or you must have something called "The Executive Look" by locking yourself into punchback.

What I dislike mainly about clothes buying are those three-way mirrors.

I see myself daily while shaving and have become accustomed to my face, as the song goes. But I am accustomed to it in one position. When I look at myself with all that backview, it is the most discouraging thing in the world.

I am sure my neck does not stick out of my regular clothes like it does out of a new suit.

"Is it supposed to look like that?" I said.

"Fits you perfectly," said the clothes man, hitching the front up and shaking the shoulders so they dropped down to my elbows. "This is the way they are wearing them this year."

"Who is wearing them this way? Clowns?"

"Ha, ha. I see you have a sense of humor. This is the Easy Look. As opposed to the Executive Drape or the Nubby Look. We'll have to let those trousers out a little."

"Do I look easy?" The salesman said I did. Oh.

I am a simple clothing buyer. But nothing is simple these days, have you noticed?

"I wear a size 40," I said firmly. "I want a brown suit. One shoulder must be lifted. So when you call the tailor in for alterations, let us not make a point of this. As though you had discovered a new continent. Or I had walked in with a pointed head."

"It is a normal and slight drop due to a minor cervical curvature. Patient suffers no discomfort, and is able to work."

"Try this on for size," he said.

"It is blue. I want brown."

"Slip into it for size, anyway," he said coaxingly.

No matter what you ask for, they always put you in something different. For size. It must be a rule in the business.

I got into the brown suit and took a studding glance in the three-way mirror.

"I'll take it."

The salesman removed it firmly from my shoulders.

"We also have this number with a slightly heavier weave."

"I like the other. Besides," I said, sneakily a look at the price tag on the sleeve, "this is twice the price. Why?"

"It is in the tailoring," he said with a superior smile. "You cannot beat this tailoring."

"I do not want to beat it. I want to buy the other suit."

The salesman looked disappointed. He called in the tailor, a sad looking man with tape measure around his neck. He looked sadder when he saw me.

"One shoulder has to be lifted," he said.

"One shoulder lifted," said the salesman.

They both looked at each other. As though they had discovered a new continent. Or I had walked in with a pointed head. Next time I will.

Yield: About 70 small; 30 large

1/2 pound bulk sausage 1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour 1/4 cup tomato paste
2 1/2 teaspoons Clabber Girl Baking Powder 1/4 cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese (2 ounces)
1/4 teaspoon salt crushed oregano

Mash sausage in a cold frying pan. Slowly fry sausage, stirring frequently to cook sausage thoroughly in small pieces. Drain. Sift together flour, baking powder, and oregano in mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Add milk. Blend with fork until dry ingredients are just dampened. Knead dough gently, about 1/2 minute. Roll out about 1/4 inch thick. Cut with 1 1/4 or 3-inch round cutter. Place rounds on ungreased baking sheet. Slightly pinch up edges of each round. On each round, place in order tomato paste, cheese, sausage, and oregano. Bake in a 450° F. (very hot) oven about 12 minutes. Serve hot.

New Moves Stir E. Germans, Czechs

By The Associated Press

Tito-like declarations of independence from Moscow by two new Communist regimes within a week in Eastern Europe stirred other Soviet satellites Thursday.

East German Communists took an alarmed look at the political overturn in Poland and the bloody revolt in Hungary and disclosed through their official newspaper that Communist militia in the factories, called "fighting groups," had been put on the alert and have been issued weapons.

Czech Communists announced in broadcasts that flying squads of party functionaries were scurrying from mass meeting to mass meeting to "explain the events in Poland and Hungary to our population." One broadcast said the up-heavals and talk about "Titoist creeds" meant Czechoslovakia also could practice Communism according to its "special needs."

'Turn Back History'

But the official Czech Communist newspaper, Rude Pravo, charged nationalist enemies of the people in Hungary were trying "to turn back the wheel of history" and called on Czechs to rally "more closely around our party and people's government."

Poland and Hungary might as well have been on the moon so far as Red China's voluminous newscasts were concerned. Hong Kong listening posts said the Peking radio had not once mentioned the violent independence—from Russia movements in Europe.

If the silence continued much longer it would be almost a sure sign of Red China's tacit approval of the development. Polish sources in Warsaw have claimed they received encouragement from Chou En-lai, Red China's premier and foreign minister, for their movement demanding equality with Moscow in choosing their own "road to socialism."

Russians Told

For the first time, Russians learned from their newspapers that a revolt had broken out in Hungary and that Russian troops had been called out to put it down. Pravda and Izvestia called it a "counter-revolutionary, reactionary revolt" but made no other comment.

In the West, the events were seen as placing the Soviet Union in a difficult dilemma. President Eisenhower issued a statement in New York saying the United States "deplores the intervention of Soviet military forces" in Hungary.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told a visiting group of Austrian newsmen the uprisings may force the Kremlin to make a major revision of its policy in Eastern Europe.

But U.S. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, in his last address before retiring as NATO commander in chief, told the British Institute of Directors in London, it was too early to tell whether the insurrections would have serious results or would quiet down.

Water Is Becoming Highly Competitive—Galloway

HOLDREGE, Neb (P) — Brig. Gen G E Galloway told Nebraska reclamation and irrigation leaders Thursday water "is rapidly becoming a highly competitive commodity in our modern economy."

"Those communities and states which have the foresight to make sure of the water future will also make sure of their continued growth and economic advancement," Galloway said.

The Missouri River division engineer chief spoke before the joint convention of the Nebraska State Irrigation Assn and the Nebraska Irrigation Assn. The two-day meeting of the two groups was to continue through Friday.

Cities Scottsbluff Plan

This state has been in the forefront of those in the Great Plains area of limited rainfall where private, state and federal interests all have recognized the value of water and made lasting contributions to its conservation," Galloway declared. "One of the earliest and most successful irrigation projects in the country is your Scottsbluff development by local interests."

"It would probably be agreed by those here today that a more definite national water policy is desirable in the light of present day demands upon water supply and the requirements of land conservation for future posterity," Galloway told the convention.

Efficient Water Use

Dry years are not necessarily undesirable years from the standpoint of irrigation, the group was told.

R J Walter Jr., director of Region 7 of the Bureau of Reclamation at Denver, said that "The last four years of drought have resulted in more efficient use of available irrigation water supplies throughout the North Plate project" in western Nebraska.

With efficient use of water many places, he said, school leaders are carrying on a delay so they can work out compliance with a minimum of pressure.

Winds Blamed For Fatality Near Friend

FRIEND, Neb (P) — Strong winds which whipped this area have been blamed for a highway fatality here.

Wayne M Harmon, 43, of Beaver City, died in a Friend hospital of injuries suffered in an accident five miles east of Friend on U.S. Highway 6.

Safety patrolman Kenneth Rawson of Seward said the wind lifted a flat bed off a passing trailer and blew it against the cab of a semi-tractor-trailer driven by Harmon.

Driver of the flatbed vehicle was Edward Swanson, 45, of Dol-chester.

Political Switch

BREMERTON, Wash (P) — The Bremerton Sun, which supported Adlai Stevenson for president four years ago, declared Thursday in favor of President Eisenhower's re-election.

Atomic Icebreaker

MOSCOW (P) — The Soviet news agency Tass has announced the world's first atomic-powered icebreaker is being built in Leningrad. The agency said the ship would be able to cruise for a year without refueling.

Future Calls For Improved Instruction

... Claims Stoddard

OMAHA (P) — Teachers are doing a good job, but will "have to do better in the world of tomorrow." Dr A J Stoddard, former Nebraskan who retired in 1954 as school superintendent at Los Angeles, declared Thursday.

The world of tomorrow will be different from today and will need better educated citizens, Dr Stoddard told 4,000 teachers attending a district convention of the Nebraska State Education Assn.

"The school will need to teach more reading, writing, arithmetic than ever before," he said. "But they can't stop there any more than the schools of today can stop there."

"The students of tomorrow will need to be taught how to appreciate the good things of life—the great music, drama and literature that is their inheritance," he said. "They'll have to learn to get along together."

Southern School Conditions Related

NORFOLK, Neb (P) — A total of 1,451 teachers registered for the district meeting of the Nebraska State Education Assn. Thursday heard a newspaperman tell "What Is Happening in the American South."

Weldon James, associate editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, told the teachers that many leaders in the South are trying and with success to carry out the Supreme Court order in regard to desegregation in the schools.

In many places, he said, school leaders are carrying on a delay so they can work out compliance with a minimum of pressure.

STOCKS MAKE SLIGHT DECLINE

NEW YORK (AP) — Motors, copers and rails underwent some mild selling pressure Thursday as the stock market registered another slight decline.

Pivotal stocks dropped from fractions to around $2 but turnover was slow, typical of recent sessions in which, brokers say, investors are preoccupied with the presidential election and are staying away from the market in droves.

Volume remained far below average at 1,550,000 shares, compared with 1,640,000 Wednesday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 50 cents to 3,577.50, with the industrials down 50 cents to 1,600.

Stocks of the automakers were depressed by the General Motors earnings, as well as the previous estimates of 1957 that were lower than those of last year.

There was some selling of houses and establishment of some small new ones late in the day. GM wired out its loss of about $30 million.

The copper stocks continued to suffer from news of price cuts in the red metal but their losses were moderated toward the end of the session.

Rails still seemed to be holding after their rise of last week, and Thursday's gains of a dozen or so cardinals added another downward push.

The American Stock Exchange was lower on volume of 840,000 shares compared with 720,000 Wednesday.

Living Costs Creep To A New All-Time Peak

Nearly Everything Up Except Food

WASHINGTON (INS)—The government reported that the cost of living hit a new all-time high in September due to creeping increases in practically everything except food.

The Labor Department said that its national cost-of-living index in mid-September was 117.1 per cent of the average for the three-year period from 1947 to 1949. This was one-tenth of one per cent higher than the previous all time peak reached last July.

President Comments

Commenting on the latest figures, President Eisenhower said the purchasing power of the average factory worker is at an all-time high.

The chief executive, in a statement issued in New York, where he made a political address Thursday night, said that consumer prices have risen only 2.3 per cent since he took office, while factory wages have risen 8.6 per cent in what he called "real wage" terms.

The index advanced three-tenths of one per cent over the August level, which had dropped slightly.

The B-57 crashed near the Mito Guntry Range. The pilot and observer bailed out safely. Cause of the crash was not determined.

The pilot of one of the jet fighters parachuted and was picked up by a fishing boat. No report has been received of the other pilot. A search was underway. All names were withheld.

STOCKS MAKE SLIGHT DECLINE

NEW YORK (P) — Motors, coppers and rails underwent some mild selling pressure Thursday as the stock market registered another slight decline.

Pivotal stocks dipped from fractions to around $2 but turnover was slow, typical of recent sessions in which, brokers say, investors are preoccupied with the presidential election and are staying away from the market in droves.

Volume remained far below average at 1,588,000 shares, compared with 1,640,000 Wednesday when the drop was steeper.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 50 cents to $17.75 with 10 stocks up, 60 down and 10 unchanged.

Stocks of the automakers were depressed by the General Motors earnings as well as the general pattern of losses and establishing of some small new gains late in the day. GM wiped out its loss of about $100 million.

The copper stocks continued to suffer from news of price cuts in the metal, but their losses were moderated toward the end of the session.

Railroads were steady to weak after their rise of last week, and Thursday's news of a drop in car-loadings added another downward push.

The American Stock Exchange was lower on a volume of 840,000 shares compared with 720,000 Wednesday.

Living Costs Creep To A New All-Time Peak

... Nearly Everything Up Except Food

WASHINGTON (INS)—The government reported that the cost-of-living hit a new all-time high in September due to creeping increases in practically everything except food.

The Labor Department said that its national cost-of-living index in mid-September was 117.1 per cent of the average for the three-year period from 1947 to 1949. This was one-tenth of one per cent higher than the previous all time peak reached last July.

President Comments

Commenting on the latest figures, President Eisenhower said "the purchasing power of the average factory worker is at an all-time high."

The chief executive, in a statement issued in New York, where he made a political address Thursday night, said that consumer prices have risen only 2.8 per cent since he took office, while factory wages have risen 8.6 per cent in what he called "real wage" terms.

The index advanced three-tenths of one per cent over the August level, which had dropped slightly from the July record. The main reason was a seasonal boost of nearly one per cent in clothing costs.

But rents and other housing costs, transportation, medical care and recreation also were higher. These prices have been creeping upward for some time. Food was unchanged from the August total.

Recent cost-of-living increases will result in pay boosts of one to 3 cents an hour for about 300,000 workers whose wages are adjusted under escalator clauses in work contracts.

Four Die In B-47 Crash

LAKE CHARLES AFB, La. (INS)—Four men were killed Thursday when a B-47 Stratofortress crashed in flames as it was taking off from the Lake Charles Air Force Base in Louisiana.

The dead were identified as:

Capt. Daniel Hawk, 34, the pilot, of Monrovia, Calif.

Capt. Foster Sherwood, 37, observer, of Wayne, Mich.

Capt. Edgar Shields, 36, instructor pilot, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Sgt. John S. Smith said that the pilot apparently tried to stop the craft as it had difficulty taking off but that the plane rose a short distance into the air and then fell to the ground, bursting into flames almost instantly.

The bomber was based at Lake Charles and was on a routine training flight.

Maid Saves Tot After Jet Fires House

OAKLAND, Calif. (INS)—A Navy jet fighter crashed into an Oakland residential district Thursday, killing its pilot and setting fire to a home from which a courageous nursemaid rescued a 20-month-old boy.

The plane, an FJ3 Fury single-seater from Moffet Field Naval Air Station, exploded upon impact with such flaming force that a 300-foot square area was scorched and blackened.

Fires fragments of the wreckage flew into the home of Nicholas Albulut in the Oakland Hills and flames swiftly leaped up around the maid, Vera Boykins, 35, as she was feeding little Robert Albulut who was sitting in his high chair.

The heroic woman snatched the baby free from the chair, dashed out of the blazing house and scrambled down a wooded ravine about 800 yards to a neighbor's home.

Suffers Cuts

Miss Boykins stumbled and fell several times during her flight, with the infant in her arms. She was taken to Highland Hospital, suffering from two deep cuts in her thigh and shock.

The baby was muddy from the falls but uninjured. Afterward, he munched a cookie in the neighbor's home. His father, a steel salesman, and the mother, a physician, were summoned to the boy's side.

The pilot who lost his life was identified by the Navy as reserve Ens. Lauren D. Martin, 25, of Fighter Squadron 154, Moffett Field. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Martin, live in Fruitland, Idaho.
